

23 BRITISH INVASION VESSELS ARRIVE FOR FRESH LANDINGS ON MADAGASCAR

Defenders of Corregidor Fought Madly to End, Took Heavy Jap Toll

7,000 Troops Taken Prisoner By Nipponese

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP)—The fall of Corregidor, its defenses demolished, its food and ammunition gone, released Japanese forces today to mop up scattered areas of resistance in the Philippines and added a strong and valuable new sea base to their tenuous southward supply line.

Already, Japanese troops in steel barges of the type used in landing on Corregidor were reported pushing up the Palawan river in Mindanao. In addition the enemy was debarking reinforcements near Cotabato on the same island. Independent raiding detachments of Americans and Filipinos have been reported highly active on that island.

(International News Service learned that Tokyo described the Americans' last ditch defense of Corregidor as "mad." Feroocious hand-to-hand clashes on the beaches took a terrific toll of Jap lives).

While Corregidor stood, its big guns and its accurate gunners kept the Japanese from making any free use of Manila bay, or Manila's shattered port facilities. It is considered one of the most useful harbors in the western Pacific, and geographically is ideally situated from the southern point of view.

But Corregidor fell, after a battling, four-week siege, which exhausted the supplies and the human physical endurance of its dogged and heroic garrison. With it, the enemy also won the smaller, rocky island fortresses—Fort Hughes, Fort Drum and Fort Frank—which lie nearby.

To the Japanese also went some 7,000 prisoners of war, including, the Navy announced late today, 3,845 officers and men of the Navy and Marine Corps. This detachment was thrown together from the Naval and Marine personnel left stranded by the abandonment of the Manila Area naval bases. It fought on Bataan and was evacuated to Corregidor. The Navy said it was "assumed" that all were captured.

This naval communique disclosed also that five small American vessels had been destroyed. It said that "the minesweeper Tanager and the river gunboat Oahu had been sunk by enemy gunfire from Bataan and that the minesweeper Pigeon had been sunk by bombers. The river gunboat Luzon and the minesweeper Quail were severely damaged, but were not sunk by United States forces when capture appeared imminent."

Nurses Captured.
For lack of word to the contrary, it was assumed, too, that the prisoners included a detail of Army nurses, who attended the wounded of the Bataan fighting and also were transferred to the island when the fighting ceased on the peninsula.

And it was supposed that Lieutenant General Jonathan M. Wainwright, the commanding officer of American and Filipino forces after General Douglas MacArthur's removal to Australia, was a prisoner, too.

The fall of the island fort was hardly unexpected. It had been gloomily and resignedly foreseen ever since the Japanese triumph on Bataan. But, for Washington, sorrow over the development was mingled, as with Bataan, with a determination that in the end, the Philippines would be regained, and the invaders driven out.

The stories of Bataan and Corregidor were essentially similar, a story of constant fighting at an ever increasing tempo, with ever fewer and shorter respites for physical recuperation and military reorganization, ending inexorably in exhaustion and defeat.

The last stages were the worst, however, on Corregidor because it

'Parked' Baby Poses 'Triangle' Problem

Horns honked and the loudspeaker blared as attendants in the Belle Isle garage went about their business yesterday of parking and delivering cars to customers.

Suddenly above the turmoil there was a strange sound—at least, it was a sound strange to a garage, but to Al Belle Isle, head of the garage and head of a family, it was not so strange, for he could remember back in his younger days when the sound was a familiar one at his home.

Launching a search, Belle Isle soon found the cause of it all, a tiny baby, left alone in his crib in one of the parked cars. The youngster seemed very unhappy. With the baby in his arms, Belle Isle returned to his office, whispered a few words into his secretary's ear and sat down to try to pacify the infant as the secretary rushed from the office.

The commission voted to take care of 30 per cent of the initial expense, as well as 30 per cent of a $1,000-a-month budget. The commission limited its monthly payment to 30 per cent of $1,000. DeKalb county already had agreed to pay 15 per cent as its share, with the City of Atlanta to stand 50 per cent and Cobb county 5 per cent.

City Councilman James E. Jackson said he would ask Councilman John A. White, finance chairman, to call a special meeting to consider the city's part in the budget. Meanwhile, it was temporarily approved.

Jackson also is chairman of the municipal defense council and a member of the mediation committee which met with the county commission yesterday. Other members of the committee are Marion Smith, Clark Howell, E. S. Papp, George C. Biggers, Robert Strickland and Charles J. Currie.

Phillips was appointed head of the metropolitan area by Dean James M. Landis, national director of civilian defense, upon recommendation of the mediation committee which had the task of coordinating city and county defense work.

Phillips will have jurisdiction over Fulton, DeKalb, Cobb, Clayton and Rockdale counties.

BRITISH DESTROYER LOST.

Extra Seats Installed For Music Festival

The roar of hundreds of drums and the blast of a thousand horns; drum majorettes prancing and cartwheeling with bright capes flapping in the air; baton twirling like dynamo; Dorothy Lamour, driven from the South Seas by war, her sarong in mothballs as she trimly salutes the war bond; children massed in a kaleidoscopic waving of the brilliant flags of the United Nations; flag uniforms; brass instruments, with waves of martial music rolling across Grant Field and breaking against the packed Georgia Tech stadium stands—

The Greater Atlanta Music Festival—the fourth annual massed exhibition of the metropolitan area's school bands—is fully organized for a triumphant free public performance, starting at 8 o'clock Saturday night and continuing breathlessly until 10:45 o'clock.

Patriot in Display.
All Atlanta joins in this annual outdoor performance, but this year the Atlanta Constitution has joined with the Georgia War Savings staff and the United States Treasury Department to make this the glitziest display of patriotism staged anywhere in the country.

The Greater Atlanta Music Festival this year will be the crashing overture to the War Bond and Stamp campaign which starts Monday in Fulton and DeKalb counties.

Everyone in Atlanta, Fulton and DeKalb counties and Georgia is invited, extra seats have been installed on the field, all stands open to the public, no reserved seats, just come along and sit wherever you want. It's a free show, not even an invitation is needed other than this general announcement.

Impressarios of the festival that in the last four years announced yesterday that the favorite stunt of the forerunners will be presented—the Match Trick. Everyone in the audience has been requested to bring matches to join in this original and unique Salute of the Matches.

Those who don't bring matches will be given book matches do.

Defense Counsel 40 Jap Planes Asks Mistrial Destroyed by In Evans Case U. S. in Burma

By DUPONT WRIGHT.
The prosecution yesterday opened its case against Dr. Hiram W. Evans in Fulton superior court with a startling picture of the former wizard of the Ku Klux Klan wielding tremendous influence over former Governor Rivers being painted by Special Prosecutor James A. Branch.

However, a statement made in Branch's address to the jury caused H. A. Allen, of defense counsel, to demand a mistrial. Judge Virlyn B. Moore, presiding, recessed court without making a ruling.

Branch charged that former chairman of the state highway board, W. Lint Miller, forcibly was evicted from his office on December 2, 1939, on order of Governor Rivers after he allegedly had discovered the state was paying too much for sand asphalt, a road-building material sold by Dr. Evans.

Alleged Bonus.
Branch also announced he would try to prove that Evans received a bonus and half of the profits of various firms he represented in selling asphalt to the state. Commissions paid to one of his companies, it was alleged, were paid by checks which were cashed in Chattanooga by Mary S. Vines, one of Evans' partners, and the money brought to Atlanta.

Another highlight of the state's case was Branch's description of an elaborate clubhouse controlled by one of Dr. Evans' companies. It was located, said Branch, in the midst of a lake in south Fulton county and here Dr. Evans entertained high Georgia officials, including Rivers. It took four or five keys to enter the place, he said, and outsiders were barred. The walls were soundproof and it was surrounded by electric wires.

Branch declared the state would show that Evans was "notoriously extremely close to the Rivers administration" and that he bragged about his power with Rivers.

Delegates Protest.
"While Miller was being kicked out of his office," Branch said, "a delegation from Richmond county came to Atlanta to protest against sand asphalt being used in a project in that county on the ground it was costing more than it was worth. They saw the Governor and, after they had left, the Governor asked Jim Gillis, a member of the board, if the state was paying too much for sand asphalt."

Gillis replied, "Yes. When he got back to his office Gillis received a telephone call from Evans, who said: 'You are meddling with my business. You don't know what happened to another fellow over there. You'd better mind your own business.'"

Branch said that Gillis reported this conversation to the Governor and that later Dr. Evans called Gillis and retracted his statement.

More Details.
Branch began by saying he would give more details of the indictment, one of the numerous others against former state officials and others, dealt with sales of sand asphalt to the state.

"Although sand asphalt was used to some extent before said the prosecutor, 'it began to be used in great quantities in the summer of 1939. For a year a tremendous quantity was purchased for and used by the state, more than $5,000,000 worth. Before less than $500,000 worth had been used."

"Evans controlled or sponsored through companies or partnerships or other concerns he represented the sale of sand asphalt. His family had a number of different concerns and he had contracts with other concerns by which for every ton sold those concerns had to pay Evans a

Surrender Expected Soon; French Admit Facing Large Odds

LONDON, May 6.—(AP)—Attacked strongly from the rear by a British landing force which had penetrated the outskirts of Diego Suarez naval base and beaten from the air by overwhelming power, the defenders of Madagascar indicated tonight that their situation was desperate and that they might soon take to the island's hills to wage guerilla warfare.

Vichy broadcasts said Governor General Annet had telegraphed his government that his position was critical, and that 23 British ships, large and small, were in Courrier bay at his back ready to land fresh troops against his fagged defenders.

Desperate Resistance.
The broadcast described the French troops as putting up desperate resistance and exacting heavy casualties, with their few available aircraft doing their utmost to drive away planes from a British carrier.

They had shot down three out of one group of 27 planes which attacked this morning, Annet's message was quoted as saying, and the troops were said to have put a number of light British tanks out of action. Previously the French had claimed to have shot down seven other planes.

Vichy French dispatches indicated that the defenders were fighting the last phase of their action and that Diego Suarez must soon fall, but the British war office and admiralty were characteristically restrained in reporting late in the day that the struggle was rising in violence.

"The advance of our forces in northern Madagascar," they said in a joint late afternoon communique, "is being resisted with determination, and casualties today have been heavier."

Air Support.
"Operations continue with the support of our naval aircraft." The small port of Anisirana on the same harbor as Diego Suarez was believed here to be already within range of British artillery fire.

An appeal by Pierre Laval's cabinet for Axis aid against the British was forecast by Free French sources here after a day of furious activity by the government in Vichy.

Many diplomats predicted that Laval might declare war on Britain, but others considered this less likely—since it would inevitably mean war with the United States—than a decision by Laval to assign the French fleet to Germany in reprisal for the Madagascar attack.

Both Laval and Admiral Jean Darlan, French defense chief, are reported to have doubted in the past whether the French fleet would fight for the Germans, but they might think they could build up propaganda from the Madagascar attack to the point where French sailors would gladly fight against the British.

In Vichy, where the Petain-Laval cabinet offered "homage to the troops and their leaders who despite great numerical inferiority opposed heroic resistance to the Anglo-Saxon forces," it was announced that squadrons of British planes were steadily bombing the surviving light French Naval forces off Diego Suarez.

French Ships Sunk.
At least two French ships, the 1,379-ton submarine Beveziers and the 7,110-ton auxiliary cruiser Bougainville, already had gone down under British Naval gunfire. Vichy claimed that seven British planes had been shot down yesterday.

While insisting that French land forces still held "the first line of redoubts," Vichy's accounts at the same time made plain that the French airpower had about been knocked out of the skies and that there was no real hope of breaking the British frontal assault from the sea.

A French counterattack at the approaches to Diego Suarez in which some 100 planes were recruited was mentioned in a communique broadcast by Vichy tonight.

Legion House Organ Stopped In Buchman Row; Editor Quits

By LAMAR Q. BALL.
Volume 17, No. 31, of The Atlanta Legionnaire, official weekly publication of Atlanta Post No. 1 of the American Legion, has been suppressed.

A copy of that edition found its way into the hands of a veteran of World War No. 1, it was a mistake—a violation of the orders of Post Commander Gladstone Pitt.

A. L. Henson, editor of the Legionnaire's house organ, has been relieved of his duties. His resignation has been accepted, it was said last night, because he failed to accept Legion regulations that the editor of a post organ is not a free agent in matters "relating to politics or religion."

The suppression of Volume 17, No. 31, it was revealed last night, was the climax to a two-man schism, a two-week war of wills between Commander Pitt and Editor Henson as to Legion policy over the appearance in Atlanta of the 90 dramatic actors of the Oxford Group.

Commander Pitt won, but from his home on Peachtree road he declared last night:

"This is a personal matter between Henson and myself. This controversy has been going on for several weeks. The April 29 edition was not sent out because the editorial matter in it conflicted with the principles of the American Legion—an organization that is neutral in religion and politics."

No one in the Legion has anything to do with this matter but Henson and me. I want it understood that the Legion is not expressing itself on the Oxford Group."

Editor Henson's swan song reached the bitter notes of grand opera excitement in the last edition he wrote and edited—the edition that was suppressed.

In an editorial, titled "GET THIS," he argued: "Ye Editor has just as much right to state the opinions of the American Legion as the commander or adjutant. So far as Ye Editor knows, no Legionnaire has given them any proxy any more than they have given Ye Editor their proxy. It is Ye Editor's opinion that each member of the Legion will think, and speak, for himself."

With that militant note, Ye Editor stands still as a pointer today—his scent directed toward the Oxford Groupers. He's dead set against the lads and lassies of the Buchman cult, who brought the patriotic revue, "You Can Defend America" for three performances, were applauded by certain groups and then moved on, leaving a settlement of missionaries behind them to drop in a few thoughts on sweetness and light and love.

Said Editor Henson, in that lamented last edition that rolled with momentous thoughts about the Groupers:

"Others may draw their patriotic inspiration from such source as they might select—but Ye Editor is not going to permit the Bishops and 'Right Reverends' of the Oxford Movement to keynote any of his patriotism."

Commander Pitt was unmoved by this 1941 revision of the thoughts of Patrick Henry.

He read the last paragraph of the Henson editorial calmly: "Said Henson:

"Ye Editor feels that the Post Commander and his Adjutant have repudiated him (whom they have known for more than two decades) for these strangers. Ye Editor will not be connected with a publication which approves of the Oxford Movement, and he, therefore, resigns—effective this issue."

The resignation was accepted, said Commander Pitt last night, "because of no reason other than the Legion is neutral in religion and politics."

How many members of Legion Post No. 1, of Atlanta, know their editor has resigned was not known last night. The news, it seems had gotten around, unofficially, by word of mouth, but not through the medium that Henson sought to use—Volume 17, No. 31.

Commander Pitt was anxious last night to have it explained that the whole two-man schism reached its breaking point without undue haste or haste at all. He persisted in his determination to keep the Legion free from violations of its regulations to the extent that he wrote a statement of his problems to Homer Chailloux, director of the American Legion Americanism Committee.

In the suppressed issue, Henson quotes Chailloux as having replied:

U. S. Warhawks Perform Well In Test Flights

New Fighters Answer Problems of Tomahawks, Kittyhawks.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 6.—(AP)—Three snarling Curtiss Warhawks, samples of a product already coming off the assembly line, ripped through somber gray skies over Buffalo's municipal airport today in the first public demonstration of one of the United States Army Air Force's newest fighting planes.

Successors to the Tomahawks and Kittyhawks which have blasted Nazi Messerschmitts and Italian Macchis for the RAF and Japanese "Zeros" for the United States Army and the boys of the AVG in the Pacific theaters, the Warhawks gave impressive accounts of themselves as they were whipped through some of their fanciest paces by three of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation's test pilots.

Paced by Lead Pilot Herb Fisher, they took off in close formation and circled the field, then reeled off a series of plain and fancy speed and climbing maneuvers which showed they could climb almost as rapidly upside-down and even while rolling as they could in normal style.

For reasons of military discretion, the Warhawks' exact specifications and performance cannot be given. But the plane is in the 400-mile-per-hour, high-altitude class, and packs a wallop that won't do the opposition any good. In the words of Burdette Wright, vice president in charge of the airplane division of Curtiss-Wright:

"We believe the Warhawk incorporates the answers to the problems the Tomahawk and Kittyhawk have encountered in actual combat. It was designed to combine the three essential elements—armament, speed and maneuverability—in the best possible balance."

Attorney Says Raiding U-Boat Charges Untrue 'Eliminated' About Shipyard By Destroyer

Lawyer for Savannah Firm Answers Statement of U. S. Attorney.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 6.—(AP)—Answering criticisms against operations of the Savannah Shipyards, Inc., an attorney for the shipyards described as "unfounded and misleading" statements made by Assistant U. S. Attorney General Norman Littell.

Littell, appearing before Federal Judge A. B. Lovett at a hearing here Monday, said that engineers had reported that "no ships could ever have been launched from the three ways constructed by the Savannah Shipyards, Inc."

The shipyards attorney, E. J. Phillips, of Cleveland, Ohio, in a prepared statement yesterday asserted that if Littell's criticisms were true, "then the Maritime Commission should be investigated" for awarding contracts to the company.

Condemnation proceedings were started against the shipyards after the Maritime Commission canceled a contract for 12 10,000-ton ships costing approximately $1,700,000 each. The commission took physical possession of the yards and charged that the company failed to comply with contract stipulations. The contract was given to another shipbuilding concern.

The financial operations of Frank Cohen, Savannah Shipyards secretary and treasurer, were described by Littell as "dwarfing the legendary 'Get Rich Quick Wallingford'."

To this, Phillips replied: "The insinuations made by Mr. Littell that Mr. Frank Cohen and his associates were motivated by anything other than a genuine patriotic desire to help their country in this great emergency is ridiculous, unfair and unjust."

The shipyards attorney declared that Littell had made an "unfounded and misleading" statement "purely for the purposes of prejudicing the minds of the public in advance of the trial."

Judge Lovett set July 6 as the date for the condemnation trial before a jury.

Workers Buy War Bonds With $1,125 Back Wages

Recent payments in back wages by the Alexander Brothers Lumber Company, of Columbus, Ga., brought $1,125 into the United States war chest.

Forty-nine employees received $1,874.19 in back wages, according to J. R. McLeod, regional director of the wage and hour division, 60 per cent of the sum being paid in war bonds at the request of workers.

Atlantic Patrol Vessel Surprises and Blasts Axis Craft.

NEW YORK, May 6.—(AP)—The debris in the water left no doubt that the sub had gone straight to the bottom—and for good.

And so, the third naval district disclosed today, another Axis undersea raider was eliminated by the Atlantic patrol. The job was done by an old fourstack destroyer.

This story, told by an officer aboard the destroyer, was formally released by the naval district. It was in the middle of the first watch, between 2 a. m. and 3 a. m. The destroyer was sliding quietly along through calm blackness. On deck no lights were showing. Below, the blue battle lights were somber pin-points. No signs of life were visible, but silent officers and men were at every station.

Suddenly, a low, dark shape loomed up ahead. At the same moment the destroyer's spotlight stabbed out and revealed a submarine lying on the surface, charging her batteries, while startled members of the submarine crew attempted to get to cover.

On the destroyer, a chief boatswain's mate manning a machine-gun sent fiery tracer bullets singing out at the submarine, forcing some of the crew to leap into the sea.

The submarine fired two torpedoes, both of which were wide. Then from the destroyer came the sharp crack of a four-inch gun fired at almost point blank range. There was a dull boom and a gaping hole showed in the side of the submarine, which slowly rolled over and disappeared.

The destroyer charged on and dropped a pattern of depth bombs over the spot where the submarine was last seen, then crossed back and dropped more. The destroyer's officers and men reported that there was no doubt about that one.

With the action over, the destroyer picked up survivors and resumed patrol.

Parents Decide To Keep Baby—But Too Late

Change Mind About Abandonment, But Infant Dies.

CHICAGO, May 6.—(AP)—A young couple's plans to provide a home for the baby they once abandoned in a New York department store were cancelled today by the infant's death.

Seven-week-old Kathy Ann Johnson died while she was being rushed to a hospital. A coroner's physician reported that apparently she died of natural causes and that malnutrition was a factor, but an inquest was continued to May 19 to permit further investigation.

The child was left in the store on April 2. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Johnson—he's 25 and she's 21—explained subsequently that "we thought we weren't able to give her all the things she deserved and needed."

But things economic looked up for them. He found work here. Last Monday Kathy Ann's grandmother brought her from New York, where she had been under the care of welfare officials.

Johnson contended the youngster should not have made the trip until she was well. He put his arm about his weeping wife and said:

"Just as there seemed to be a way out of our financial difficulties this had to happen. New York released the baby to us and they were going to drop the abandonment charge against us because we now have a permanent home and I have a job as a machinist here."

WPB Places $5,000 Ceiling On Film Sets

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP)—The government notified the film industry today that it could spend up to $5,000 and no more for movie sets for each picture. Hereafter some sets have cost from $10,000 to $150,000.

The figure covers new materials costs only, the War Production Board said, and does not count labor or any materials which might have been left over from earlier pictures.

The movie industry, it was understood, had asked for exemption from the $5,000 limit provided for commercial building projects in WPB's recent construction order, suggesting that the movies were essential to public morale and the industry would voluntarily hold costs to a minimum.

WPB rejected this idea.

Freak Accident Fatal to Child

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 5.—(AP)—His body suspended head-downward from a nail which snagged his clothing, two-year-old Robert Henry Klein Jr., drowned here today after tumbling from a boat platform at Lake Oconee.

The little fellow was caught in such a way that his head was immersed in water less than two feet deep. His little sister, Roberta Klein, 6, sought vainly to rescue him, finally summoning aid which arrived too late.

The child's parents have been living in Augusta about a year. The father, a native of Chicago, is a civilian instructor at Georgia Aero-Tech.

Besides his parents and sister, the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Maude Polter, of Elgin, Ill., survives. The mother is the former Miss Constance Polter, of Winnipeg, Canada.

Wainwright Refuses To Leave Fortress As End Approaches

(Dean Schedler, Associated Press correspondent on Bataan and on Corregidor, reached Australia recently from The Rock. He was the last American newspaperman to go.)

By DEAN SCHEDLER.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Thursday, May 7. (AP)—The story of "Wainwright's Rock"—Corregidor—is the story of men who held on and fought until their endurance was stretched beyond human limits by a merciless blasting from the air and from massed artillery.

The fall of the fortress deeply affected all of us here in Australia who worked with those men.

The last time I talked to Lieutenant General Jonathan M. Wainwright, I said to him: "You should be leaving, not me."

He replied, harking back to one of the battle songs of Luzon: "I have been one of the 'Battling Bastards of Bataan' and I'll play the same role on the rock as long as it is humanly possible."

At the end, Corregidor suffered terrible punishment from guns and bombs, said Major William R. Bradford, of San Antonio, Texas, who reached Australia just two days ago with the last Americans from the rock.

The Japanese heavy cannon, firing approximately three miles from the Cavite area and six miles from the Bataan shore, hammered the island's gun positions and tunnel mouths throughout the day.

Heroic Pilot.

Bradford, who recently won the Distinguished Flying Cross, was one of the pilots who volunteered to make the last flight to Corregidor to deliver urgently needed medicines.

Before he started back to Australia, Bradford, too, urged General Wainwright to leave, and told him the United States and the United Nations needed general of his type on other fronts.

But Wainwright replied: "I have been with my men from the start and if captured I will share their lot. We have been through so much together that my conscience would not let me leave before the final curtain. Americans shaken by the loss of Bataan should not feel the fall of the Manila bay forts to be a double tragedy, but rather the exemplification of the grimness of our spirit when we stay to the end with a job to be done."

When I left the Philippines just after the fall of Bataan, Corregidor already had been subjected to weeks of vicious pounding by the Japanese shore batteries and hundreds of air bombers, but the men on the rock assured me the American flag topside "will fly as long as we are able to load the artillery and pump a load out from the antiaircraft and machineguns."

Overwhelming Odds. Officers and men, withdrawn to Corregidor from Bataan exhausted from the fight against overwhelming odds, uncomplainingly took up positions along the island's defenses—because they were Americans and because Wainwright was Wainwright.

Throughout the peninsula campaign Wainwright not only directed his men but he fought with them. They called him "the most front-going general."

Then the loss of Bataan brought the northern coast of Corregidor within direct fire of the Japanese batteries. And there always were the "Photo Joe" Japanese planes which almost daily came over on photographic observation flights.

Corregidor Defenders Fought to Bitter End

In addition to the other hardships, heroically borne, ammunition was running out. There was always an adequate ammunition supply on Bataan.

Throughout the fighting on the peninsula, Corregidor was pounded intermittently by bombing planes and by big guns emplaced on the Cavite shore 10 or more miles away. Having seized Bataan, however, the Japs were able to place their big guns on the heights of that peninsula, less than three miles off, and fire at virtually point blank range.

The result was a devastating crossfire, the fury of which was increased by aerial bombing and dive bombing. On each of the four days before the capitulation there were 13 such raids, and the island was under fire for five-hour stretches.

The War Department released General Wainwright's account of it today.

"One of the last messages from General Wainwright prior to the fall of Corregidor described the fighting on May 5 before the successful landing attack by the Japanese.

"Enemy artillery, including 240 mm. guns, firing from many new positions, shelled Corregidor and other island forts throughout the day. Our guns replied with counter-battery fire and shelled truck columns in Bataan.

Unrelenting Attacks.

"The artillery and air attacks were in continuation of the operations against the fort which began soon after the fall of Bataan on April 9. They increased in intensity as the Japanese installed heavy batteries on the slopes of Mount Mariveles in Bataan. The defenders were greatly handicapped in their counter-battery fire by lack of aerial observation.

"Beginning on April 29, the Japanese artillery fire became much heavier and from then until May 5, there was little respite from artillery and air attacks. The artillery fire proved more disastrous than the aerial bombardment.

"During the last few days there were many casualties among our troops and the damage to military installations was severe. The landing was preceded by a heavy artillery attack on the beach defenses which swept away the barbed wire entanglements and blasted machinegun installations and other centers of resistance. The Japanese used a large number of steel barges in the short water trip from the tip of Bataan to Corregidor."

Earlier the Army had announced the end in these grim words:

"The War Department has received a message from Corregidor advising that resistance of our troops has been overcome. Fighting has ceased and terms are being arranged covering the capitulation of the island forts in Manila Bay."

Will Be Remembered.

Bataan and Corregidor will be remembered together, not only for the similarity of the pattern of their capitulation and the inspiring deeds of American fighting men, but also as an example of long and carefully laid military plans which tragically miscarried. It was never intended that the Philippines or even Manila should be held against an invading Japanese army. At no time were there enough men or enough equipment for that. The original strategy was that in the event of a war with Japan the defending forces would finally withdraw to Bataan peninsula and with Corregidor for an anchor, hold out until reinforcements and supplies could arrive.

It was estimated that this would take 60 days at most. Bataan held out, however, for four months, from the time the war started. Corregidor lasted another 28 days. But the reinforcements for which the men of Bataan and Corregidor scanned the skies and the horizon never arrived.

This was because the original plan took no account of the factor of Japanese supremacy in the air, a supremacy which was established on December 7, when a mighty Japanese air force swooped over the Manila airfields and destroyed most of the planes there—on the ground, their crews standing by ready to take off. If the attack had come a few minutes later all would have been in the air.

With Japanese bombers and fighters ranging the airways above the islands, virtually unopposed by fighter craft, the landing of reinforcements was impossible. A few supply ships got in from Australia with ammunition.

RAF Pounds Nazi Factories, Docks Again

Power Station at Caen, France, Is Bombed by British.

LONDON, May 6. — (AP) — The south German industrial city of Stuttgart was pounded by the RAF again last night for the second night in succession despite continuing cloudy weather which made observation difficult.

The air ministry said other unspecified targets in southern Germany, the docks at Nantes and airbases in the Low Countries and northern France also were attacked.

Four British planes failed to return.

Southeast English coastal points were attacked by four German planes at dusk and by two at dawn today. Two or more persons were listed as killed and some damage was done. (The Germans said they effectively raided industrial and rail installations at the Dover Strait town of Folkestone.)

Today the RAF again swept northern France and bombed a power station at Caen.

Curtin Feels 'No Dismay' at Corregidor

Australian Premier Cites Values to Allies of Heroic Stand.

CANBERRA, Australia, May 6. (AP)—Prime Minister John Curtin declared today that "there will be no dismay at the news of the fall of Corregidor; rather there will be a feeling of pride and admiration."

"The fact is," he continued in a statement, "that a very small force of brave men has held the world's attention by an amazing stand against the armed might of a foe greatly superior in manpower and machines."

FIRST PRIZE ALL-AMERICAN PACKAGING TROPHY AWARDED TWIN-PACK BREAD

NO HIGHER HONOR CAN COME TO ANY PACKAGE

And now TWIN-PACK goes to work for Uncle Sam. Why? Because of the war emergency the government has suggested that bakers conserve waxed paper. Although this is not a law, the Bakers of Southern Bread, of their own accord, are cooperating at once by eliminating all double wrapping. This means that the exclusive, prize-winning, patented TWIN-PACK feature has "enlisted" for the duration.

Southern Breads now come to you in new wrappers and each loaf is now enriched with an extra amount of needed vitamins and minerals to provide better nutrition so urgently needed to meet the present emergency.

The Bakers of Southern Bread realized the need for better nutrition eight years ago when they were the first bakers in Dixie to introduce bread enriched with vitamins. This important trend has been steadily growing. Recently Government Agencies recommended that all white bread be enriched. In quick cooperation with our government the Bakers of Southern Bread are now making not one — but three different ENRICHED loaves. And each loaf is immediately identified by the brand name "Southern" and the word "ENRICHED" on every wrapper.

The exclusive, patented TWIN-PACK feature has "enlisted" for the duration, but Southern Breads — unchanged in looks, taste or price — ENRICHED with important-to-health B-vitamins and minerals — will continue to be one of the best and cheapest sources of food energy your money can buy. Serve them today — and every day, and help your family achieve the health and strength they need to do their job for Victory! Sold by better food stores everywhere.

Fresh Russian Troops Seize River Valley

Siberia-Trained Reserves Claim Victory After 4-Day Battle.

MOSCOW, May 6. (AP)—Russia has thrown into her own spring offensive the first of the reserve divisions raised and trained deep in Siberia last winter, and the fresh troops have captured an important river valley from the Germans, Red Army dispatches said today.

This vanguard of the new armies fought a four-day battle with a German force holding both banks high above the river, said the account of the engagement, published in the Army newspaper Red Star.

On the second day, the Russian division mopped up one bank and captured a village against strong resistance; on the third day it held its ground against counterattacks by two battalions of German infantry, heavily supported by aircraft, and on the fourth day the Russians forced the river, captured the opposite bank and drove the Germans into a forest.

The location of the division's victory was not specified, but other Soviet dispatches told of hard blows dealt the Germans on both the northwest and central fronts in local engagements, and of the repulse of German counterattacks in the Ukraine.

In general, major action was restricted by spring floods.

Red Star said Red Army troops on the northwestern or Kalinin front, in answer to Joseph Stalin's May Day order of the day, had taken five settlements in a single day despite serious opposition by German fire-power. (German high command advisers claimed the restoration of communications with a German force surrounded since January 21, apparently the German 16th Army at Staraya Russa on this front.)

Guerrilla warfare was on the increase behind the German lines. On the Briansk front, these hidden fighters were credited with killing 400 men in an attack on Hungarian divisions, and with seizing five tanks.

at the COURTHOUSE

County Chief of Police George Mathieson plans to put a first-aid kit in every patrol car, it was brought out at the county commissioners' meeting yesterday. The proposal was not discussed, being mentioned in connection with another matter. Chief Mathieson's request for another man to replace a regular assigned to special investigation of roadhouses, beer parlors and dance halls, as recommended by the grand jury, was granted.

A special meeting of the Fulton county commission has been called for 11 o'clock tomorrow to consider the problem brought up by rationing of asphalt. The board plans to prepare instructions for future construction work.

Defense Asks For Mistrial In Evans Case

bonus, usually 40 cents per ton. In addition, they had to pay him 50 per cent of their profits. This bonus, in addition to the cost of the material, processing and handling, was added to the price the state had to pay.

Periods Involved.
The prosecutor said that there were three periods involved in the alleged conspiracy to defraud the state, the first up to December 1, 1939; the second, from the latter date to May 1, 1940, and the third, from May 1, 1940, to January 14, 1941.

"On December 2, 1939," the prosecutor went on, "W. L. Miller, chairman of the State Highway Board, was evicted from his office and kept out till about April 20 by the use of the militia."

"Miller was allowed to return to his office on April 20. Other members of the highway board were Jim Gillis and H. H. Watson. Shortly before the eviction Miller and Gillis had had an investigation made of the cost of road-building materials. Afterwards they adopted a resolution that they would not buy any more sand asphalt at more than $4 per ton, which was more than it sold for in Alabama. That action took place the same week that Miller was thrown out—literally thrown out—of his office."

Branch Gives Figures.
Branch then gave figures on the amounts of sand asphalt purchased for the state.

"Up to December 1, 1939," he said, "the highway department had bought and used for the year $477,000 worth of this material, paying $5 or more per ton. The actual purchases were made by the purchasing agent."

"In the second period, the six months from December 1, 1939 to May 1, 1940, the state bought $3,248,512.44 worth of this material. In the third period, from May 1, 1940 to January 14, 1941, the state bought $2,660,814.68 worth. In all, a total of $6,987,080.01 for all three periods. In the summer of 1939, Governor Rivers had taken over budgetary control of the highway department. He gave as his reason the stringent financial situation of the state."

He then ordered "the prosecutor continued, 'that there be no expenditure of more than $25 without approval.'"

Branch then alleged that after Rivers assumed budgetary control, the obligations of the highway department grew from $9,342,323.90 on November 3, 1939, to $26,954,047.41 on January 15, 1941. During this period, he said, O. G. Glover was first assistant supervisor of purchases and then chief supervisor, attached to the Governor's office.

The prosecutor then explained how the state purchasing act designed to secure fair prices for the state was allegedly circumvented. "No matter what requisition the department issued," Branch said, "say 40 or 50,000 tons of sand asphalt, the purchasing agent, instead of asking bids on that amount, would make contracts to buy a number of smaller quantities. The vice of this was that bidders on large quantities would offer lower prices than on small quantities."

He then said that the Georgia Highway Improvement Company, an Evans firm, sold the state $353,445.50 worth of sand asphalt in six months. Another company in which he was interested sold the state $266,554.50 worth in the same period, while a national firm with a branch in Atlanta, he charged, sold $492,128 worth to the state through Evans, paying him a bonus of 40 cents per ton. During the same period, the Westco Company, of Chattanooga, which had a contract with Evans, sold the state $198,997 worth.

Reaching this point, Branch took up the disappearance of records of various companies controlled by Evans. H. A. Allen objected that this subject was irrelevant, while Branch said that the point was relevant because it involved "guilty connections."

This remark caused Allen to ask a mistrial on the ground that the statement was prejudicial.

After exhausting four panels of 48 men, a jury finally was selected to try Dr. Evans yesterday, but a hitch occurred when Juror No. 2, W. D. McKibben, WPA material clerk, announced that his stomach was troubling him and that he couldn't serve.

Judge Moore then recessed court while opposing counsel discussed selection of another juror. The defense has exhausted all of its 20 strikes in the selection of the 12, the question was how many more it would be allowed in choosing the substitute.

It took six and a half hours to select the jury, each of the 48 men having to answer 14 questions regarding his ability to ignore politics and prejudice for or against Governor Talmadge, former Governor Rivers, who was jointly indicted with Evans and O. G. Glover on a charge of defrauding the state of large sums of money, and the Ku Klux Klan, of which Evans is the former imperial wizard.

Besides McKibben, the jury consists of the following: H. E. Davis, 3842 Atlanta avenue, Hapeville, mattress maker;

M. H. Elder, 35 Muskogee avenue, Buckhead, retired truck salesman; Howard C. Chapman, 3219 Oakdale road, Hapeville, waxer for a paper company; T. C. Walker, 915 Pattillo avenue, Buckhead, salesman; T. V. Coleman Sr., Roswell road, farmer; L. H. Warlick Sr., 415 West Cambridge street, real estate man; C.

C. Wilder Sr., 349 Moreland way, Hapeville, unemployed automobile worker; R. D. Watson, of College Park, employee of Georgia Power Company; H. J. Hubbard, 1450 High Point place, retired; Paul C. Roberts, 491 Techwood drive, Standard Oil employee, and B. H. Stephens, 770 Cooper street, clerk for American Can Company.

Schools Close At Noon Today For Rationing

High School Teachers To Aid in Registration After 2 O'Clock.

Fulton county elementary schools will close at noon today and high schools will close at 2 o'clock to permit teachers to resume registration of the last quarter of the county's population before deadline tonight, Superintendent Jere A. Wells announced last night.

High school teachers will dismiss their classes and go to the assistance of the elementary teachers in their vicinity, Wells said. He said he has asked elementary schools to remain open "until 7 o'clock or longer" if necessary today.

Swamped by crowds of would-be registrants, city schools started releasing their pupils shortly after school opened yesterday, a roomful at a time as the need for teachers to man the registration posts grew.

Superintendent Wells estimated that 20,000 people would register today. He asked that persons registering be prepared to furnish the following information: for each member of the family, height, weight, color of eyes, color of hair, age, sex, and relation of the individual to the applicant.

City teachers who were not officially scheduled to resume registration of persons for sugar rationing cards until 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon found would-be registrants waiting for them when school opened yesterday morning.

As the day progressed the crowds of adults in the halls increased to a point where many teachers were forced to send their pupils home at lunch time.

In some schools the happy youngsters were released an hour after they arrived at school.

Doubled Up.
At first the teachers tried doubling up, giving one teacher two classes and giving another to start registering people, an attaché of the office of M. E. Coleman, superintendent of city schools, said last night. "After awhile the traffic got so heavy they started releasing one class after another. You couldn't blame the people for coming early. Many of them waited three hours the day before."

But John Evans, assistant to the director of foods for the state rationing administration, expressed a tentative hope last night that the weary, heavy-eyed teachers had the worst behind them.

Three-fourths of the state's 3,120,000 had been completed last night, a proof, Evans said, that registration was "on schedule."

Splendid Job.
"The teachers are doing a splendid job," Evans declared, "and it's encouraging to find that they are on schedule. But people have been inconvenienced and we are extremely sorry for that."

If night registration of citizens at three downtown high schools predicted there would be no necessity for extending the registration limit past today, the final day.

Persons who are employed downtown all day may register at Commercial High tonight. Night registration of Negroes will be held at Booker T. Washington and David T. Howard schools.

Sugar rationing books, white folders bearing a description of the owner and a single sheet of 28 stamps will be used for sugar used through June 27. After then they may be required for the purchase of other commodities. Each stamp entitles the bearer to buy a pound of sugar every two weeks.

Dates on the stamps follow: May 4 to May 17; May 17 to May 30; May 31 to June 13; June 13 to June 27.

Hard Work Urged In War Effort
COLUMBUS, Ga., May 6.—(P) Governor Talmadge warned last night that it is not impossible for a desperate Axis to bring the war to the shores of the United States and told members of the Lions Club here "we are not war-minded enough."

The Governor, scheduled for a talk on "State Government," had little to say on the subject, but called attention to the fact that federal taxes are mounting higher without objection from the public. Talmadge said he felt it was the duty of a state to try and cut its taxes and at the same time build up a cash reserve.

Talmadge also urged hard working self-sacrifice in bringing the war to a successful conclusion.

2 Crewmen Die When Torpedo Hits Freighter

Two Vessels Off Florida Driven to Shallows After Attacks.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., May 6.—(P)—An Axis submarine that sneaked close inshore on the Atlantic east coast torpedoed a small American freighter Monday night. Captain W. W. Callis, of Baltimore, turned her into shallow water.

The Navy revealed the attack today, after 30 survivors had rowed to safety and been landed at an east coast port. There they rested and were given new outfits by the Red Cross.

Two men on watch in the engine room—Wilbur Stine and James Rose—apparently were lost when the torpedo struck.

Stricken Vessel Towed to Shallows
PORT PIERCE, Fla., May 6.—(P)—Quick help from another ship kept a medium-sized British freighter, torpedoed off the east coast, from being sent to the bottom.

A Nicaraguan banana boat was near by when the freighter was attacked, and managed to tow the victim to shallow water.

Word of the attack was given out today by the Seventh Naval District after the 57 crew members all reached shore safely.

Captain R. Bridson stayed aboard three days until he made certain his cargo would be guarded, and then came ashore only after direct instructions to do so.

21 Landed After 14 Days in Boats
CHARLESTON, S. C., May 6.—(P)—The Sixth Naval District announced today that 21 sailors had been safely landed following torpedoing of a small Norwegian merchant ship off the Atlantic coast.

Thirteen were taken to Parris Island Monday. Eight crewmen and a body were brought here.

The survivors had been afloat in two overcrowded life boats for 14 days, during which they covered about 600 miles.

Smithwick Seeks To Replace Cox

TIFFIN, Ga., May 6.—(P)—J. H. Smithwick, of Moultrie, has announced his candidacy for congress in the second district to succeed Congressman E. E. Cox.

Smithwick, former resident of Florida, served four terms in congress from the Third Florida District from 1919 to 1927.

Some time ago he returned to Moultrie where he formerly operated a newspaper.

During a visit here this week, he said he had been in several counties in the district recently.

If elected, he would have the distinction of serving adjoining congressional districts in two states.

Congressman Cox is expected to be a candidate for re-election.

STUDENTS SEEKS ASSEMBLY POST.
TOCCOA, Ga., May 6.—Sam McFarlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. McFarlin, of Toccoa, and a student at Piedmont College, at Demorest, has announced for representative from Stephens county.

He points out that he is president of the class at Piedmont and a member of the debating team. McFarlin was a winner of the Charles Smith trophy for the best speaker at Piedmont.

London Writers Elect Bunnelle
LONDON, May 6.—(P)—The Association of American Correspondents in London today elected Raymond Daniel, of the New York Times, president; Edward Beatty, of the United Press, vice president; Robert Bunnelle, of the Associated Press, treasurer, and Helen Kirkpatrick, of the Chicago Daily News, secretary.

Count Kaneko, Friend Of Teddy Roosevelt, Ill
TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts), May 6.—(P)—Count Kenzo Kaneko, 88-year-old privy councillor, was critically ill today, with a subnormal temperature and rapid pulse.

Kaneko, Harvard-educated friend of the late President Theodore Roosevelt and long-time student of American affairs, urged on December 6, the day before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, that a joint commission be formed to solve American-Japanese problems.

College Head Says No New Issue in 'Row'

'Repetition of Old Criticisms,' President Jacob Says at Americus.

AMERICUS, Ga., May 6.—(P)—President Peyton Jacob, of Georgia Southwestern College, today said protests of resigning members of the staff of the school paper, "The Sou'wester," were "just a repetition of old criticisms."

The resignations came after the last edition of the paper had been distributed, he said, and after a new staff had been selected for next year.

Luther Watson, editor of the paper, in announcing yesterday that all but two of his staff had resigned, said the resignations were in protest to faculty interference with the paper.

Watson cited specifically an editorial asking more freedom for girls living in dormitories, and said this item was deleted at the insistence of Dr. Jacob.

The school president in discussing the resignations said the college has a faculty committee which functions on a "partnership" basis with the students. He said no complaint had been brought before the committee this year that had not been adjusted satisfactorily.

"It was very easy for them to resign," he said, "since it was the last issue and they had no more work to do."

Editor Watson today said there would not be another edition of the paper under his editorship. Watson is a resident of Graymont-Summit, Ga.

Limitation Voted On TVA Spending

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(P)—The senate approved today, over administration opposition, an amendment to the independent offices appropriations bill limiting expenditures of the Tennessee Valley Authority to funds previously voted by congress.

Under existing law, the TVA has authority to make expenditures from its receipts from power sales. Administration leaders contended this "flexibility" of operations was necessary to enable TVA to meet "unforeseeable" developments occasioned by an expanding war power program.

REGISTRARS NAMED.
McDONOUGH, Ga., May 6.—F. J. Lynch, of McDonough; J. R. Coan, of Locust Grove, and J. L. Elliott, of Route 2, McDonough, have been appointed registrars to revise the registration lists and check the payment of poll taxes in Henry county. They will begin reviewing the tax commissioners' records at an early date.

Here's where and how you can save money on Paints

Coolidge Hygrade PAINTS
F. J. COOLEIDGE & SONS, ATLANTA

Difference in Freight alone represents a saving to you of 20c to 25c Gallon.

Whether you require one gallon or fifty for the job in hand, consider well the difference in cost between points made right here in Atlanta and points shipped into Atlanta from distant points. The more one toys with that thought the more logical it becomes.

None Better at Any Price

Try where you may—pay what you must—there is no such thing as finding better points than Coolidge "Hy-Grade." Made especially for Southern climate, the Coolidge formula is obviously superior to points made to one formula for all sections of the country.

Coolidge Flat Oil Wall Paints, $2.30

A saving of at least 50c a gallon on this item. Shop the town over—compare formula and price—you can't escape the conclusion that, grade for grade, none on the market excels Coolidge "Hy-Grade" Flat Wall Paints. Priced elsewhere at $2.80 per gallon, or more.

Coolidge "Perma-Spar" Furn. Enamel (Qt.) $1.70

Use "Perma-Spar" anywhere, outdoors or inside, on any painting surface. This enamel is made with genuine Tung Oil, giving life, lustre and durability not otherwise obtainable.

Apply on your finest furniture and woodwork, also on lawn or porch furniture, swings, boats, floors. None finer, none better at any price. Quart, $1.70; Pint, 95c. White, black and colors.

"Satin-Tone" Casein Paste Paint, $1.90

Another glittering example of the saving effected when using Coolidge paints is "Satin-Tone" Paste Paint. Instead of $1.90 you pay $2.25 or more, elsewhere. Instead of 4 pints of water, this paint takes 5 pints to the gallon—another saving to you. White and pastel colors.

Coolidge "Hy-Grade" Perma-Tone, $2.45
Elsewhere $2.98 or More

Odorless, washable paint for walls and ceilings. Use over wallpaper, painted or unpainted walls; one coat covers. Dries in one hour.

Perma-Tone is made in semi-paste form. Plain water is added to prepare it for application. One gallon of Perma-Tone makes 1½ gallons of ready-to-spread paint, giving soft, velvety finish. White and pastel colors.

Popular Budget Plan

You can paint your house inside and out, and paper the walls, for as little as $5.80 per month, for jobs up to $100. Larger jobs proportionately more. This covers cost of material, labor and small handling charge.

Recriminations Fly At Meeting of Fulton Commission

Charges of secret meetings, lies and cheap political patronage were tossed around the meeting of the Fulton county commission yesterday by Commissioners I. Gloer Hailey and Dr. Charles A. Adams.

Hailey started the fireworks by reading a statement concerning recent findings of the grand jury, in which he declared the grand jury had hit home when it recommended co-ordination of effort.

In reply to Hailey, Dr. Adams referred to supernumeraries in Hailey's department of police and denounced "a secret meeting" for appointment of 20 or more such officers.

Hailey immediately labeled the charge of a secret meeting "an untruth" and added that the meeting was called by the clerk. Referring to "cheap political patronage," Hailey said the defense or opposition—Dr. Adams—"must be wearing the shoe and it pinched his foot."

Blames "Procedure." Hailey is chairman of the police committee and Adams is chairman of the public works committee.

"As every member of this board knows," Hailey said in a part of his prepared statement, "I have tried since January, 1941, to get a program of the public works adopted by this board and turned over to Superintendent Clarke (chief of county construction) to carry out. This would mean careful study and planning with road work being done where most needed, and equitably distributed all over the county, but no, although this board voted for such procedure, we have never had such a program. Why not admit we have been wrong before the long-suffering public reminds us in no uncertain terms at the ballot box?"

"It is such slipshod, personal privilege, procedure on our part that gives sufficient grounds to the newspapers, so they just wax eloquent on the evils of local politics, entirely overlooking the good, just playing a popular tune for their readers, our taxpayers; even playing upon the emotions of the people unfairly at times, yet we are giving them the excuse to do so."

Respecting the commissioners to get together so "no one will dare lift the voice of unfair criticism against us," Hailey said "there is nothing wrong with our form of government." He added: "The wrong is in the procedure and that we can and must correct."

Welcomes Changes. Apparently taking exception to the remarks about roads, Adams drew a verbal bead on Hailey and cut loose with the charges concerning supernumeraries in the police department and secret meetings.

Adams finished his argument by telling the commission "he would welcome any changes it might wish in the handling of public works projects."

Earlier in his statement Hailey pointed out it was impossible for the grand jury to see every angle of our administrative functions.

"However," he declared, "they have certainly brought to our attention one glaring fact, which is that there is great need for co-ordinated effort on our part in the fulfillment of our sworn duties as commissioners."

"After all," he continued, "the responsibility of governmental administration rests on our shoulders and not on the shoulders of grand juries, newspapers and civic organizations. It is the purpose of this statement to challenge you as my colleagues to look at our situation calmly, honestly and fearlessly, disregarding carping critics with ulterior motives, or individuals or delegations with selfish interests, and give intelligent, organized direction to our county government as we are capable of doing if we will put self aside and work as a unit instead of working separately as we have in the past."

He went on to point out that he had "persistently sought for a change from one commissioner rule of departments to the democratic form of rule which is for the whole board to act in legislative capacity and let the department head have free rein."

He said he had shown he wanted to practice what he preached and pointed to the police department's operation as proof of what could be accomplished through such measures.

Bomber Ball's Boogie-Woogie Boosts Bonds

Beauteous Dot Lamour, Bandmaster Bernie Will Be There.

Bonds, boogie-woogie and three hot bands will be all mixed up together at the Buy a Bomber ball at the city auditorium Saturday night, starting at 10 o'clock and lasting till folks just can't make merry any more.

Miss Dorothy Lamour, no less, will pass out the bonds to lucky folks after dancing one dreamy waltz with some lucky fellow, while Ben Bernie, the Old Maestro, wields the baton to see nobody misses on the downbeat.

Two fast-moving stage shows, paced by the two M-G-M starlets, known as the Ship Ahoy Girls, will provide the boogie-woogie, and the hot dance music will pour from the trumpets of the Troubadours, Louis Ridley's orchestra, and Eddie Camden's band.

Juddy Johnson, producer and master of ceremonies of the mammoth show, is bringing down his entire Henry Grady hotel gang, including Vollette and Barry, Red Thornton, the comedy cartoonist, and Dorothy McCay, singer of sweet songs with Camden's musicians.

Foollishness will feature the show from the Capitol theater, with Edison and Louise, the Two Flares, the Three Acrobatics, which means nut acrobats, and Frank Markow stepping through their laughter-laden routines. Daredevil Dault, the man who flirts with death, will add a few hair-raising thrills to the program.

Tickets, on sale at theaters and department stores, cost $1.10 for civilians, 55 cents for service men, and every dime goes to the Treasury Department.

President of Peru Arrives in Miami

MIAMI, May 6.—(P)—President Manuel Prado, of Peru, a leading exponent of the Pan-American good-neighbor policy, arrived today on a precedent-making trip to visit President Roosevelt and study the United States' armament effort.

The president and his party of 13 reached the United States at the end of a 3,000-mile leg of the trip to Washington from Lima. They were greeted by a military display, beneath huge United States and Peruvian flags.

President Prado, the first South American chief executive to visit this country during his term of office, will go to Washington tomorrow.

Later he will be the guest of President Roosevelt at a state dinner and will remain overnight in the White House.

Georgia Flying Officer Killed In Indian Crash

Captain Elmer Parsel, Macon, Among 9 Honored for Heroism.

NEW DELHI, India, May 6.—(AP)—Awards of the Order of the Purple Heart today disclosed the deaths of nine United States Army airmen in a crash in India April 2 as they were taking off to attack the Japanese Navy.

Those on whom the medal was bestowed posthumously for "extraordinary fidelity and essential service" were:

Major Norman H. Llewellyn, Miami, Fla., aide to Major General Lewis H. Brereton; Captain Elmer Parsel, Macon, Ga.; Second Lieutenant Duke Paul, Asheville, N. C.; George Harkness and Raymond B. Sprang, Sergeant Raymond Gregor, and Privates Willie T. Stokes, Owen B. Knox and James C. Paumoff.

FLAG SWINGERS—A large group of pretty girls will introduce Swiss flag swinging in a beautiful pattern of rhythmic color at the fourth annual Greater Atlanta

Music Festival at 8 o'clock Saturday night in Georgia Tech's stadium under sponsorship of The Atlanta Constitution. Arlie Richardson, of Bass Junior High, is in charge of this event on a program studded with big bands, costumed dancers and movie stars. The show is free to the public. More than 3,000 boys and girls will participate.

French Cables To U.S. Given Order To Close

Defense Board Shuts Down Message Facilities for Security.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP)—The Defense Communications Board has ordered the immediate closing of all facilities of the French Telegraph Cable Company in the United States.

The board said it had been determined that "the national security and defense in the successful conduct of the war" required the closing of these facilities.

The order applies to all of the French company's offices, stations, equipment and apparatus for the transmission, handling and receipt of messages.

Bridge Tournament Here Will Open Tomorrow

The third annual contract bridge tournament of the American Contract Bridge League will be held tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday at the Georgian Terrace hotel.

One session, at 2 o'clock tomorrow, will be for women's pairs, open to any pair of women players. At 8 o'clock tomorrow night mixed pairs will be eligible. Sessions for open pairs, men, women or mixed, will be held at 2 o'clock and 8 o'clock Saturday. Team matches, for entries of four players, will be held at 1 o'clock and 6 o'clock Sunday.

HAPEVILLE'S NEW BAND—This musical organization at the Hapeville High school was only organized this year but it is a hit with the people who have seen it. Roy Drukenmiller, school principal, is the director. This band will be one of the score or more parading Saturday night in the big free fourth annual Greater Atlanta Music Festival sponsored at Georgia Tech's stadium by The Atlanta Constitution.

nated to the festival by the Coca-Cola Company. The "pause that refreshes" institution that has grown up with Atlanta has donated 25,000 books of matches so that the absent-minded, who left their matches at home, can join in the flaming display.

How It Works. The Salute of the Matches will be featured again by incontestable public demand. At signals from the master of ceremonies, all lights on the fields are switched and at other signals everyone in the stand strikes a match and transforms Grant Field into a sulphurous halo. At more given signals, different sections light up, in the eery darkness of a huge stadium packed with humanity.

Here are just a few of the star stunts of the show that has been worked out by The Constitution and the war bond campaign organizers:

1. Dorothy Lamour, the high priestess of Hollywood's war bond campaign, the sultry-voiced glamour gal from New Aw-leens, a sight to soothe the soul of all men, will be here in person to meet Atlanta and to join in the broadcast of the show over a Georgia radio hookup. The Treasury Department is sending her here.

Champion Majorette. 2. Jetty Parker, new movie starlet who has been crashing over the Hollywood horizon, herself a former world champion in the deft art of baton twirling, winner of a drum majorette competition in Pasadena's famous Rose Bowl, will be here in glamorous person to give an exhibition. She's on a Treasury Department tour also.

3. Paul Yoder, famous band leader, will be on Grant Field to lead a massed band of 1,000 pieces.

Yoder is being brought by The Constitution from Chicago for the show and will conduct the massed school bands in a rendition of "El Capitan," the stirring march by John Philip Sousa, and other music. The ASCAP has permitted free use of the music for the show.

4. The famous band leader, Yoder, will judge the baton twirling contest and select the Georgia champions. The Constitution is awarding prizes to the winners—$25 war bond, first; $10 war stamps, second, in three divisions.

Parade of Flags. 5. A parade of the flags of the United Nations, with approximately 2,500 flags used.

6. Pledge of Allegiance to the United States flag by 1,248 children, dressed in red, white and blue costumes. The costumes have been designed so that when the children whirl into place for the flag salute, a huge red, white and blue flag will be formed by the costumes.

Dance Exhibition. 7. An exhibition of flag swinging by 200 school children, led by Arlie Richardson, of Bass Junior High school, this act introducing for the first time in Georgia the Swiss art of flag swinging in mass numbers.

8. Dance exhibitions by Atlanta elementary school students to such varied music as "Victory Walk," "Pop Goes the Weasel" and "Deep in the Heart of Texas." Mrs. R. W. Sistrunk, principal of the E. S. Cook school, is chairman of a 60-teacher committee which organized and trained the dancers from 32 elementary schools.

9. And then—of course—the original purpose of the festival, the Parade of the Bands, with the individuals in the crowd cheering their favorites. The bands will represent Atlanta Boys' High, Tech High, Commercial High, Decatur Boys' High, Georgia Military Academy, Canton High, O'Keefe Junior High, Spalding County High, Joe Brown, Hoke Smith, Bass Junior High, Murphy Junior High, North Fulton High, West Fulton High, Fulton High, the Smillie - Clark Howell - Spring Street elementary band, West End elementary band, Chamblee High, Hapeville High and Richardson High.

Not in Order. 10. Frances Bennett, the only girl in the world who can do a forward flip through the air without touching the ground as she does a complete round-about flip as she's spinning through the air. Frances, an Atlanta girl, is only 15 years old and she has a stage contract that will be effective as soon as she becomes 16. She's the daughter of Claude Bennett, the Atlanta jeweler.

of appearance as the show will be staged Saturday night. It's just an incoherent summary of what a goggle-eyed audience may expect.

The program, from caviar to nuts, will be announced in The Constitution Saturday morning.

Tip Given.

Here's one tip, though. As the crowd packs into the stadium, there'll be a musical concert that will get everyone into the mood. Frances Wallace Stokes and Wannie Heston, of Atlanta, have arranged a jive and patriotic program on twin pianos and solovox, where they have won acclaim for their artistry. Wannie Heston is a well-known dance leader in Atlanta. The instruments he and Miss Stokes will use have been furnished by the Cable Piano Company and they'll hand out a program of popular numbers.

John Fulton, the famous radio announcer of WGST in Atlanta, will do all the announcing over the public address system and will be master of ceremonies for the radio broadcast.

Scouts to Help. Three hundred Boy Scouts will distribute programs, bulletin information on the war bond pledge campaign and the Coca-Cola book matches. The Scout groups have been organized by Weaver Marr, Boy Scout executive.

Civilian Defense auxiliary police and regular police will help to handle the crowd. Captain L. L. Deck, Fulton county professor of military science and tactics, with a staff of Army officers, will assist in timing the show, seeing that every stunt clicks on schedule.

The show's organizers announced that if the show is rained out it will be held at a later date. Ben Logan Sisk, band director at Commercial High school, is program director for the festival. And it'll be the brass and baton sweepstakes of the century.

ROCKS OF RESOLUTION.

LONDON, May 6.—(AP)—Sir

Smedley Crooke proposed in the house of commons today that blocks of stone from its Nazi-bombed chamber be sent to the congress of the United States and the parliaments of the dominions, each inscribed as a symbol of a "common resolution to wage war in defense of democratic government."

Arlington Seniors Win Essay Prizes

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
ARLINGTON, Ga., May 6.—Alma Garrett, a senior of the Arlington High school, has been notified that her essay, "The Citizen of My Community Who Has Done Most for the State of Georgia," was judged the best paper from Calhoun county in Rich's Diamond Jubilee essay contest.

Mrs. Lora Turner Bostwick, organizer and guardian of the Arlington Camp Fire Girls, who won national recognition for outstanding work in 1936 for which she was presented the Harriman medal, was the subject of Miss Garrett's essay. She will receive a prize of a $25 defense bond at the announcement luncheon at Rich's on May 9.

Miss Martha Boynton, also a senior of the Arlington High school, was awarded second place for Calhoun county for her essay on the late Leroy Manry, of Edison, who was prominent in the religious, civic and business circles of Calhoun county. Miss Boynton will receive $10 at the luncheon given by Rich's.

H. G. Breedlove Hurt by Scraper

H. G. Breedlove, 50, of 539 Lake drive, knocked down yesterday by a road scraper, was reported to be in a critical condition last night at Georgia Baptist hospital.

Breedlove, Radio Patrolman F. L. Smith and J. B. Harper reported, was standing near the corner of Martin and Woodward avenue, when the scraper, which had been parked on the street, started rolling. The scraper, police said, passed partially over Breedlove's body.

Car Tire Slasher Sought by Police

Search for a Negro tire slasher was instituted yesterday by police after Louis Kilgore, manager of the Georgia Highway Express Company, had told police that a Negro had slashed tires on several automobiles belonging to company employees.

Kilgore, in reporting the slashings to police, said the automobiles were parked on DeKalb avenue, near the company's freight depot, when the tires were slashed. He said three tires were cut and probably ruined.

DEFENSE MEETING.

Staff headquarters personnel for the first zone, Civilian Defense, is requested to attend a meeting at 8 o'clock tonight at the Ansley hotel. Instruction on the war bond pledge drive will be given by Garrett Carter. The meeting, which is called by Will R. Beck, first zone pledge campaign chairman, will be attended by General Eugene Oberdorfer, first zone commander, and Charles J. Currie, Fulton county defense chairman.

List of Bands For Festival Still Grows

Decatur and Hapeville Groups To Appear Saturday Night.

By FRANK DRAKE.

Two more bands—those from Decatur Boys' High and Hapeville High school, are added to the list of a score or more which will be on exhibition in the fourth annual Greater Atlanta Music Festival at 8 o'clock Saturday night at Georgia Tech's stadium in the big free show sponsored by The Atlanta Constitution.

They'll take part in the south's biggest outdoor festival which will be climaxed by a personal visit from Dorothy Lamour, "singing" star, who is being brought here by the Georgia War Savings Staff and the United States Treasury Department to stimulate launching of the Fulton and DeKalb counties war bond pledge campaign Monday.

E. D. Allain, director of the Decatur band, has planned a special series of marching stunts for the performance and Decatur people will be there cheering.

Both the Decatur band and the new Hapeville High bands have proved popular this year in their towns. Roy Drukenmiller, who is principal of the Hapeville High, organized this band this school year and it has played at many gatherings in Hapeville.

Griffin Band To Take Part In Music Fete

Spalding High Aggregation To Come to City for Constitution Event.

The Spalding County High School band, from Griffin, will be one of the colorful units in the big parade in the fourth annual Greater Atlanta Music Festival to be sponsored free to the public at 8 o'clock Saturday night in the Georgia Tech stadium by The Atlanta Constitution.

It will be one of a score or more of bands in the biggest outdoor musical show in the south. Joe Woodall, a member of the school's senior class, is director of this uniformed band, having taken over when the regular director, Charles White, was inducted into the Navy in March. The band was organized in 1939 and this is the second time it has entered The Constitution-sponsored festival at Grant Field.

On the same program Saturday night will be Dorothy Lamour, the movie star, brought here by the Georgia War Savings Staff and the Treasury Department to stimulate bond sales. Jetty Parker, former world's champion drum majorette, 1,258 costumed dancers and many other attractions.

Personnel of the Spalding County High Band follows: Myrie Akin, Mary Bailey, Steve Bailey, Billie Barfield, Joel Biles, Charles Crawford, Jack Cowan, Beck Crowder, John Dorsey, Claude Donehoo, Lloyd Edwards, Sam Gosa, Calvin Gosa, Eugene Hamby, Joe Hazel, Lottie Hunter, Ramona Hugley, Betty Hudson, Mildred Kent, Russell Kirkland.

Majorettes: Jean Wallace, Miriam Stanfield, Daisy O'pry, Juanita Bethea, Annette Manley, Betty Jane Burks, Grace Biles, Betty Ann Fullerton, Jane Vining, Boyd Norton, Gwendolyn Barnett and Leoris Clark.

Anti-Venereal Disease Drive Called Success

COLUMBUS, Ga., May 6.—(P) Since city officials undertook an intensive drive against venereal diseases in this war camp area, the number of exposures among soldiers has dropped from 551 in February to 21 in April, Fort Benning's commanding officer disclosed.

In a letter to Mayor Elmer Reese of Columbus, Ga., Walter S. Fulton wrote: "May I take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to you, to Mr. Homer D. Cobb, commissioner, and Mr. A. L. Gullar, commissioner, and to your police force for the effective work you have initiated in helping control the problems to venereal disease in your city and adjacent areas."

"Our records reveal that the exposures in your area and the cases resulting from such have steadily declined since your suppression program went into effect. "This is shown in comparing the week of February 1, 1942, when 551 exposures occurred, and the week of April 25, 1942, when only 21 exposures occurred."

North Carolina Posse Slays Killing Suspect

HAMLET, N. C., May 6.—(P) William Dawkins, 50-year-old Negro carpenter, was shot to death today by armed possemen in a blazing climax to a manhunt begun yesterday shortly after Police Chief John B. Fallow and four members of a Negro family were slain.

About 100 possemen discovered Dawkins in a swamp in the vicinity.

As the Negro fled into the open, possemen said, he drew his gun. The possemen cracked down and the Negro died instantly.

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 7, 1942.

Au Revoir, Corregidor

"To the meeting again." That is the literal translation of the French expression, Au Revoir.
So, it is Au Revoir to Corregidor and Manila. The United States has been forced to surrender the islands to overwhelming force, superior in numbers, in food and equipment. But that surrender is but temporary. It may take a few years, it may be sooner. But to every Filipino on the islands, to every native son and daughter who had found new and better way of life in collaboration with Uncle Sam, goes the promise, we'll be back. It is Au Revoir, not Goodbye.

Today the Japanese are at the peak of their war success. They have taken the territories they coveted. Where next they will strike no one knows. It may be Australia, it may be India, it may be Siberia. It might, even, be the Pacific Coast areas of America. That they will strike somewhere is certain.

Yet, if they could hold their gains, the Japanese would undoubtedly be glad to call off their war today, to make peace. Not peace, truly, but an armistice for a few years, perhaps a decade or two, in which to consolidate the resources and the manpower of the conquered territories, to thus build greater power than ever for the next attack on Western civilization.

But they cannot have that peace. One by one we lose our former strong points. Now Corregidor has gone. It had to surrender but only after carrying out its assigned role in glorious manner. That role was to hold the Japs at bay for every possible day. They held out so long the Japanese schedule is badly disrupted. History may acknowledge that the stubborn fight on Bataan, at Corregidor, in Burma was what decided the final issue, by giving America and her allies time to gather the strength needed for the attack which, someday, shall drive the whimpering Japs down in utter defeat, shall reduce their island home to a shattered shell of a tenth rate power.

Corregidor has gone. But the men of Corregidor wrote a glorious page in the history of battles.

And Corregidor knows, inexorably, it is not farewell we signal today.

It is Au Revoir. "To the meeting again."

Farm Labor Shortage

In a majority of the counties of Georgia there is a shortage of farm labor that is steadily growing more serious. At a time when the agricultural producers of the state and nation are called upon to make bigger crops, for the supplying and feeding of a world at war, the Army and the war industries of America are draining the manpower away from the farms.

In Toccoa, last Saturday, a joint meeting of county war board, farm labor and tenure committees was held to discuss this problem as it affects Stephens county. At that meeting plans were adopted for a policy of strict cooperation between various county agencies and the individual farmers, to meet the problem as best it can be met.

This is the intelligent, sensible approach to an issue which will, before the war is over, be of vital importance in every county of the state.

Other counties may already have taken action similar to that taken in Stephens. In any which have not yet moved to meet the problem, however, it would be the course of wisdom to plan now, to prepare to make best possible use of the county's resources in men and machinery for farm use, and thus to be in best possible condition to carry on with the important job of food production when a large proportion of the manpower has been taken away.

Significant Difference

For two months the people of Fulton county were urged, begged and argued with, to register so they can cast their votes in the coming fall primaries. At the close of the registration period, 53,268 had registered. The votes of these, approximately one-eighth of the population, will decide how and by whom Fulton county's public affairs are to be run.

Today the people of Fulton county are registering for another purpose. To be able to purchase a couple of pounds of sugar per month. After two days of the sugar rationing registration, approximately 140,000 had registered in Fulton county.

Of course, the sugar registration includes everyone, even the smallest and youngest children. It is to be able to secure an essential of life.

Yet the thought persists that the right of the franchise should be an essential duty of life for an American, a citizen of a free democracy. No American worthy the name, qualified to register and vote, should permit anything to stand in the way of the exercise of that right.

Today Americans are fighting and dying for a cause which embraces many rights and privileges, great and small. One of those rights is the right of franchise. It seems doubly strange that, while men are willing to die for that right, on Bataan, in Corregidor, on the battle-scarred isles of the Pacific, other Americans, at home, value that right so lightly they will not go to the small trouble of registering.

We are fighting, too, to make it possible again to bring in all the sugar we need, safely across the oceans of the world. We value sugar so highly, we all rush to register so we may continue to get a little.

Isn't the vote, fundamentally, more valuable than sugar? Doesn't the vote symbolize and contain within itself every right we have enjoyed, including the right to buy as much, whenever we pleased, as we desired of sugar or anything else?

TVA Under Fire

The Tennessee Valley Authority, heart and soul of the south's major war effort, stands hamstrung today by a Tennessee senator who long has hammered at the agency for his own political purposes. He is Senator McKellar.

After years of operation under a system whereby power revenues have been used by the Authority to strengthen the economy of the whole Tennessee Valley and the south, McKellar has jammed through the senate a change in its financial operation. This is a change which Senators Hill, of Alabama, and Norris, of Nebraska, correctly charge will "seriously impede, if not destroy," TVA's part in the war effort. It remains to be seen whether the house will concur.

McKellar, utilizing his position as ranking member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, is attempting to force restriction of TVA expenditures to funds appropriated by congress. This in face of the fact TVA management has been such that unexpended appropriations to the extent of $30,000,000 are expected to be left over when the fiscal year closes on June 30. Yet McKellar claims it necessary to make TVA responsible to congress. A logical deduction is that McKellar seeks thereby to make TVA amenable to his political pressure, which in turn stems from Boss Crump, of Memphis.

If there was evidence of profligate expenditure by the TVA, there possibly might be some merit in McKellar's attempts, successful in the senate, to hamstring an agency now devoted to the speedy development of the war effort. The fact that money is being returned to the Treasury is sufficient proof funds are being expended judiciously.

Georgia Editors Say:

FIRE FIGHTS ON AXIS SIDE

(From The Conyers News.)
The rapid growth of volunteer civil defense is a fine thing for this country. It is showing people that the responsibility for preventing and dealing with disasters must be shared by all. People who used to think of fire as something which was exclusively the fire department's business, are learning that it is their own personal business.

It is natural and right that fire defense is one of the principal purposes of the entire civilian defense movement. America, like England, may one day be showered with incendiaries from enemy planes. Enemy agents within our own borders will unquestionably attempt sabotage on a wide scale, and fire is their main weapon. Unless the people are trained and ready, those agents will succeed—at a terrible toll in American life, American resources, American war production. Almost every citizen can become part of the vast "fire fighting army" we need. All can learn the simple lessons that will enable us both to prevent fire, and to deal with fire when it breaks out. The gigantic quantities of materials that are devoured by flame must be saved. Remember that fire fights on the Axis side!

THE WORLD TODAY

By JAY G. HAYDEN.

TO HONOR HART WASHINGTON, May 6.—Senator Prentiss M. Brown, Democrat, of Michigan, brought into the open a controversy which long has been raging in naval circles, when he announced Monday he would sponsor a congressional movement to recognize the service of Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, retired, by directing that he be raised to the rank of admiral.

The American government has been handing out promotions and decorations with an exceptionally free hand. Numerous Navy men, ranging from admiral to seamen, have been brought to Washington to receive their distinctions directly from the President or the secretary of the navy. But Rear Admiral Hart, who, his fellow officers say, directed the American Asiatic fleet in the early days of the war with a skill and success certainly not excelled so far by any other American commander, was sent into retirement with no special recognition.

Some of Admiral Hart's friends believe that the main reason he has been slighted, is his known disagreement with the battle plan of the British and Dutch commanders, which resulted in almost total destruction of the American naval force in Japanese waters. Special commendation of Hart now would be calculated to excite renewed discussion of this lamentable phase of Far Eastern warfare, with attendant international recriminations.

NOT CAUGHT NAPPING

In marked contrast with the commanders in Hawaii and at least the air forces in the Philippines, Admiral Hart's Asiatic fleet was not caught napping on December 7. Indeed, he was convinced as early as last July that war with Japan was inevitable and deployed his ships at that time to meet just the sort of sudden attack in overwhelmingly superior force which the Japanese launched.

All of the principal warships, based at Cavite in Manila Bay, not only were scattered at sea on December 7, but large merchant vessels had been loaded with equipment, munitions and supplies, and sent to establish auxiliary bases at secret points in the archipelago. Under the preconceived plan, only the considerable fleet of submarines were to continue to depend on the Cavite base.

The one notable miscalculation of Admiral Hart was his assumption that the defense air force in the Philippines would be sufficient to protect the Cavite base from effective Japanese air attack and that it therefore would remain serviceable for submarines which would continue to move in and out of the harbor submerged. Because practically all of the American airplanes, both bombers and fighters, were quickly knocked out, Cavite was rendered useless as a base of supply even for submarines. Even so, these undersea boats performed miraculously.

HARD JOB WELL DONE

Admiral Hart's most difficult job was to save 40 to 50 large merchant ships which were caught in Manila harbor. American cruisers and destroyers, of which there were only a handful available, covered the withdrawal of these vessels so successfully that only one of them was lost. A Japanese fleet in southern Philippine waters during the movement of this merchant shipping southward, and might have done serious damage. But by adroit handling of our fighting ships, this Japanese force was deceived away.

Admiral Hart continued to fight his fleet for all it was worth in defense of the Philippines until Manila fell and the American Filipino land forces were bottled up at Corregidor and on Bataan peninsula. Then, convinced that defense of Singapore was hopeless, he transferred his base of operations to Java and moved his fleet there without the loss of a single vessel, excepting some small craft that had purposely been left in Manila Bay. Admiral Hart himself escaped to Java on a submarine which was repeatedly bombed in the course of her five-day journey.

TWO URGENT TASKS

At Surabaya, Admiral Hart found two tasks urgently demanding the services of warships. The first of these, to which General Sir Archibald Wavell, the Allied commander-in-chief, assigned first importance, was to escort reinforcing convoys into Singapore. Ten ships were escorted and guarding them absorbed all of the British and Dutch surface ships.

The other task was directly to oppose the Japanese invaders. Admiral Hart's surface force, consisting of two cruisers, the old aircraft tender Langley and a few destroyers, was all that was available for this job. It was a very difficult form of operation. The Japanese naval forces not only were far superior, but their control of the air was such that they always had better information as to our forces than we had respecting theirs. Admiral Hart dispatched four task forces to intercept the Japanese convoys. Only one of the four was successful, but that one, consisting of four old American destroyers, produced the Battle of Macassar Straits, which cost the Japanese several loaded troop transports and warships, without a single American counter-loss.

WHY HE WAS REMOVED

Soon after this, Admiral Hart was displaced, allegedly because of ill health. Actually, he was in excellent health. He was removed because the Dutch, rightfully perhaps, insisted that they should have a share of command in defense of their own territory. Because he already had passed the 64-year retirement age, this shift in command and automatically removed Hart from active service. He did continue to advise us, and in the capacity he urgently cautioned against sending the Allied fleet en masse to meet the Japanese—the maneuver that later led virtually to complete destruction of the Allied naval force.

Admiral Hart was in Australia, on his way home, when this event occurred. President Roosevelt received him at the White House and spoke kindly of his service in a subsequent press conference. Beyond that, he has had not even so much as an official "thank you" for the job he performed.

SILHOUETTES

The Hand Of God.
I was waiting for a street car, on a downtown corner. An old man, tall and thin, was selling copies of Atlanta's afternoon newspaper. I bought one and he remarked in friendly fashion, that left but one more to sell before the final edition for the day came out.

We chatted about things in general. He spoke with intelligent understanding about the war and the news of the day. He was, emphatically, a cheerful soul and anyone would judge him to be contented with life as he found it. The darkening skies promised rain, at any moment, and he turned to the weather as topic for conversation. Said he expected heavy rain by 6 o'clock, "old time."

"I can't get used to this new time we have," he said. "Can't get over the habit of judging the time of day by the sun, like I did on my farm when I was younger."

He conceded, however, that the new time has its advantages. Gives man more daylight hours, after the day's work is done, to mess around in his garden and otherwise engage in out-of-door hobbies.

But it was the weather that led to a few remarks about his past life. "I used to have a good farm, down Barnesville way," he said. "But I lost it. Reckon the Lord didn't intend for me to make a success farming."

How It Came About.

"It was a good farm, a hundred acres or a little more. There was a branch—most as wide as the Chattahoochee, it was, but we called it a branch—that was the boundary to one side of my place. "This time I'm talkin' of was about 40 year ago. I'd had bad luck with my crops for several years and this year had to decide what would become of me. Good crops would save the farm and give me a good, fresh start. Bad crops meant I'd lose my farm—couldn't meet the mortgage payment—and be tossed out with nothing.

"It was a dry summer, for my farm at least. No rain fell on my crops at all. They burned up and I was ruined.

"There was another fellow had a farm on the other side of the branch. And, several times that summer, it rained, good rains, on his place, right up to the branch, but nary a drop fell on my side. That branch was the line. It would rain on his side but never on mine. My crops burned up and failed and he had a good year. "The Lord decides where the rain shall fall and I reckon He just decided He didn't want me to keep that farm."

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Most Liberal Liberal NEW YORK, May 6.—I have decided that I am just about the most liberal liberal in the United States at this writing. I am what you could call a reactionary liberal, which may sound like a contradiction of terms, but isn't. It means one who has reacted against liberalism gone to bigotry, which is what has happened to most of the old liberalism.

It was, I guess, along about 1934 that I first felt a sensation that those whom I had formerly respected as leaders of liberal thought were going haywire. One, for example, who had done a big business in liberalism and went in for all the showy affections, such as dirty fingernails and the 30-day shirt, suddenly let fly the idea that freedom of speech might reasonably be denied to persons who couldn't be trusted to exercise it with a due regard for the feelings of adversaries on the point of being out-bounced. Most of them, by suggestion, if not by an outright expression, also revealed a belief that all business was bad, not because of any specific fault which business was tainted with, but just because it was business. And there was one, a terrible rum-pot who drank only champagne and always dressed like a stand-in for Jimmy Walker, who expressed his liberalism by getting drunk at political gatherings in the homes of the rich and then insulting the host or hostess for being rich.

Selfish, Jealous

This one got a big salary, but had a grown son of an abandoned wife working on one of those leaf-raking government jobs and while he pretended that he had cut the kid loose for the kid's own good I noticed that my liberal friend wasn't denying himself anything and came to the conclusion that he was just damned selfish. As to his insulting conduct toward rich people, I decided that he was just jealous. If you hate the rich just because they are rich you don't hang around with them and stop up their noses.

I noticed that liberals could break down and yowl over the pinched and sallow children of the mill towns whom they had seen slumming, and wait about the square of it all while sitting round in the homes or saloons, but were absolutely insensitive to the predicament of kids who are denied the counsel and immediate presence of a father or mother just because one parent or the other decided to jump the fence. If a mine was killed in an explosion, leaving a fatherless young one, that was awful, but if a well-heeled liberal abandoned his kids to chase some floozy, or just because the old lady could talk him down on his liberalism, that was different.

I discovered that they were awful gossips, liars and truth-twisters, too. Well, these were manifestations of personality, to be sure, but you can't throw such considerations out entirely in estimating the liberalism of a man leaving a fatherless young one, or liberal. And, furthermore, their liberalism itself was very narrow, in that, for example, men and women who had been bawling against regimentation went tail over hump for NRA and the dole when it came to implications of dependency on the largess of the party in power which would surely exploit that dependency, and did, and for laws which would compel every one to join a union.

Wrong John

Even then I could see what Wrong John Lewis was made of and would tell them he was a dictator and that their plan to strip the power of Lewis and other like him and they would say I was just ignorant and without a social conscience. Most of them have turned on Wrong John since then, but not because he has changed or the laws have changed. He has just been taking advantage of those who exactly as I predicted and it isn't even for that they have repudiated him. He has been repudiated because he broke with F. D. R. and they had to be for him or against him. If he had stuck with the President he would still be a dictator though he is an enemy of every freedom on the list and of every worker.

I used to see some liberals buzzing around Floyd Olson, the Scandinavian Huey Long from Minnesota, and knowing myself that Olson was a dangerous man, I just ambition, I began to edge back. You couldn't express it very well, but any real liberal could tell that this man was poison and yet he enjoyed a wonderful buildup every time he came to Washington.

I think La Follette and Bob Wagner are cold-eyed bigots as indifferent to brutality against and suffering by people who will not do their way as any of those prohibition persons who chortled at the blindness, paralysis and death of poor unfortunate who only sniffed a little booze.

Now, me, I am a no-discount liberal and I saw the light, as you might say, when the mock-liberals began traipsing with the dirty Communists and pushing their betters around. The new of the time, the Americans, we have to do their way because they know what is best for us.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

LETTER TO M. DE RICHELIEU It was in a letter dated February 6, 1770, to M. de Riche, that the cynical Voltaire wrote:
"God is always on the side of the heaviest battalions."

The Japanese have nine-inch guns on the heights of Bataan. The rock could take the dive bombers. The rock could take the guns from shore positions. The heights of Bataan were captured weeks ago.

The guns were moved to the heights. To the weight of the shell and its explosive force was added the power of gravity. A nine-inch shell strikes with the force of an express train running at full speed. Imagine one dropped down hill! The nine-inch shells pounded the rock hour after hour. The small, grim Japanese gunners worked ceaselessly.

Hidden behind emplacements and the hills, the guns were able to work in uninterrupted ease. There were no planes to locate them. It became, finally, a matter of time.

No aid could reach the rock. Those on it knew that. It was just a matter of time before the steady rain of shells, which kept the anti-aircraft gunners off their stations, would take their toll. The nine-inch shells blast solid rock.

The fall of Corregidor is another blow, another defeat like the which this country had not known until Bataan. The glory of the men who fought and died there, of the nurses who tended the wounded and sick, will be a glory as long as man has memory.

The fall of Corregidor is not a minor defeat. As long as it stood the Philippines stood. As long as it stood great Manila bay could not be used as a base for submarines, ships and repair docks. As long as it stood the Japanese had not conquered the Philippines. Now, they have.

A DISH OF CROW

It is not pleasant to eat crow. We are eating it. Defeat is bitter always. When those we know have died or been captured the defeat is the more bitter.

It makes me wonder about things. We are a great people, a gentle, naive people until aroused. And then a people likely to do rash, cruel, thoughtless things.

I wonder about the writers of letters I used to get—before December 7.
The writers hated England, Roosevelt, Churchill. They loved Lindbergh, Wheeler, Bennett Clark and all the isolationist group which told us this country would never be attacked.

They cut clippings from the Chicago Tribune and mailed them to me. They scribbled their slobbering hatreds on paper, retreating behind pen names or no names. Occasionally they signed them. They still are around. Always cowards, most of them are afraid to speak out. They still hate the government. They still would betray it.

There is a minority press, the Hearst press and the Chicago Tribune notable among them, which constantly appeal to that type of people. They would have us believe that England is our foe; that Russia will win and make the whole world communistic. They seek to divide us on the war, to say that we really could set up a wall and live behind it. (How, God knows. In fear, in terror, in starvation, in death.)

Most of the little band of curs which yapped in the van of the Bunds, the Coughlins, the "American Mothers," "The Friends of Freedom," and all the organizations which sheltered them, are silenced. A few of the more psychopathic still keep it up. But most of them are quiet, waiting for an opportunity.

They are not important. It is wise to keep them in mind and to know them when they do give voice.

NO ONE MAY SAY WHEN

We are, as Vincent Sheean said in his lecture Tuesday evening, in the early phases of the war, not the closing.

We know, from private advice, that rubber today is the most precious material needed.

If public opinion were ready for it the government would tomorrow strip off the tires from every civilian car and use it to reclaim the rubber for war uses. The need it that bad.

We see iron and steel become more precious than gold and silver. We know that our own plans are being held up while we send supplies to Russia so that the Russians may have enough to hold back the Germans from the oil in the Caucasus region.

It was a few questions were sent up to James Young and Sheean asking, "When are WE going to fight?" (The ghosts of thousands dead and thousands captured will smile ruefully at that.) We are fighting, against odds in men and materials, on a half-dozen fronts. Great things have happened that can't be told. Mighty forces are in movement.

Yet who can doubt that we must supply Russia first? If Germany can smash through and make a juncture with the Japanese that would be a major calamity, prolonging the war indefinitely.

None of us likes the fact that our scrap iron is being shot back at us by Japan, killing and wounding our men. None of us likes the fact our gasoline is powering Japanese airplanes and tanks. Yet, not until the war is done and the full story known can anyone say with certainty that there were other factors involved.

We can see this war, in many of its phases, as through a glass, darkly.

But, we can know that our men are fighting, dying, and that we have ahead of us the great effort, greater than any yet made. The early phases of the war are all we have seen.

If the Flood Threatens All Equally, Why Should Any Escape Work on the Levee?

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

The average or ordinary American citizen is a patriot. Talk with him and you will discover that he is ready to do his part. He is apt to say: "What difference does it make how much we give up or endure for a few years? We'd rather have a few years of tough living than a life-time of slavery."

But even patriots cannot endure unfairness. They will sacrifice for their country, and fight for their country, but they won't be the goals of the country. The country means all of us. Every duty or obligation imposed by citizenship falls equally upon us all. There is no privileged group that is excused from service.

But if one man is carrying his share of the burden, and a greater burden is laid upon him because others somehow contrive to avoid their part, not even patriotism can reconcile him to the injustice of it.

When men brood over unfairness they cannot prevent or change, they may become bitter and stubborn enough to say: "It's their country as well as mine. If they won't turn a hand to save it, I'll be damned if I'll save it for them."

We face a job that will, beyond any doubt, require all that we have and all that we can do. It is madness to waste time and energy by inviting resentment. And the first concern of those who apportion the burden should be to equalize it, and adjust it to each man's capacity to bear it, and avoid the very appearance of unfairness.

Since the war has increased national income by many billions, the obviously fair and sensible thing is to levy the new taxes on the new income. Recovering what the government puts out would pay a large part of the war cost.

Yet the Treasury now proposes to take another three billion from the middle class people who are already paying more than their share and cannot pay more without borrowing.

Meanwhile the billion-dollar take of the unions is untaxed and unreported, and countless thousands escape payment by faking their records.

"At least a man has he will give for his life"—but not for a tax-dodging neighbor's life. There is only one fair and sensible rule: Levy the tax where the money is, and don't pauperize one group while another has a surplus.

Dudley Glass

John Smith—now what's his middle initial?—let's look it up in the telephone book—

Omigawh, there are columns and columns of Smiths and half of them begin with J. Let's forget it.

Anyway, this Smith is the John Smith who deals—or dealt—in automobiles, out West Peachtree.

They call him the "Old Reliable." Maybe he is. I never did any trading with him, so we're good friends.

When I came to this metropolis there were more buggies in sight than horseless carriages. It fond recollection doesn't deceive me.

The elder Smith dealt in buggies, and built them. This John started in buggies, with rubber tires—they were hot stuff then—and afterward found himself kinder pushed into the horseless carriage business.

Couple of years ago John Smith was in something of the same attitude as the power company, which provides public transportation.

The power company complained bitterly about people who picked up other people and gave them a free ride to town in an automobile. It was unfair competition.

I didn't pin him down on this point, but I have an idea that a few years ago John Smith would have told me that sharing an automobile was unconstitutional. "Let the other fellow buy an automobile," he would have said. "If he wants a really good one tell him to see me."

But, at a party a few days ago, Mr. Smith, who has plenty of new cars to sell—if he were permitted to sell them—outlined the idea of a Neighborhood Mutual Co-operative Go-to-Town Association—or associations.

Automobile Co-op: A Share-the-Car Movement

"Frame 'em up with your neighbors," he said. "We all want to save tires. Now they're going to ration gasoline. Why not fix it so Bill will take you to work in his car Mondays and Fred will take you Tuesday and you can take both of them Wednesday—and so forth. If you're lucky enough to be on speaking terms with five fellows in the neighborhood who own cars—well, you see what I mean."

Sounds like a good idea. I'm going to call a neighborhood meeting this week. Because the trackless trolleys certainly are needing a Standing Room Only sign.

New Geography

More lessons in geography. How often had you thought of Madagascar in the last 10 years? If you had ever thought of it since grammar school days.

December 7 and the weeks that followed introduced us to many a little island we'd never heard of. Then the war took us into the Kipling country—Mandalay and the Irrawaddy river and the bay—where the dawn came up like thunder.

War has changed a lot of things. I can dimly remember the Russo-Japanese War and Port Arthur and the long Russian names. We were merely mildly interested in that war. It didn't concern us. No war ever would concern us.

I remember, too, that the sympathies of most Americans were with the "little brown brothers," about to be annihilated by the Russian bear—the "bear that walks like a man." More Kipling.

There's been a change there. Russia is on our side. And you know how we feel about Japan.

Wonder where the scene of our next geography lesson will be laid. Let's hope it Tokyo.

Housewives' Part In Price Job Told

Housewives were told yesterday that they have a job to do helping to make the new price ceiling program effective, but were reminded the time has not yet arrived for complaints.

Oscar Strauss Jr., regional OPA administrator, pointed out that the general maximum price regulation does not go into effect until Monday, May 18.

Even when the price control program begins, Strauss asked purchasers to use restraint in making complaints. If the purchaser feels that a price is out of line, he should call it to the store's attention first, the administrator added. If no adjustment is made then, he explained, a complaint should be made to a local war board, not to Washington.

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.
THE RABBIT TRAP.

I was preaching the other night on that passage in Jeremiah where it speaks of snares set to catch men, and I turned aside for a moment to remind the boys in the congregation that I had been trying to find time to make a trap to catch the rabbits that have been eating our young cabbage.

The next morning I found an old-fashioned rabbit trap on the front lawn, and inside this unsigned message:

"Here's a good rabbit trap for your spring cabbage patch. I hope you catch them all; fat ones, both large and small, so there'll be none left to hatch."

I set the trap, and the very first night I caught a rabbit. When I lifted the door, my dog, Scrap, took out across the yard after him in one of the most dramatic races ever witnessed. She was within inches of him when he went through the wire fence into Bill Horne's bird sanctuary. Scrap couldn't jump the fence, but she tried, crying like her heart would break. The rabbit made a circle and came back within 20 feet of the fence and sat down and looked at Scrap, washing his face with his dew-soaked front feet. I thought of Uncle Remus, and wished he might have been there to record that scene.

And, believe it or not, Mr. Ripley, that rabbit hasn't been back to bother the cabbage; neither has he made any tracks around that trap. That is not to imply that he will not be back to nibble the tender leaves of the cabbage; nor do I say that he will never again get caught in that trap. Scrap runs to the trap every morning, hoping he has been foolish enough to give her another chance. I wouldn't know what the final outcome will be. I do know that I think someone for that trap. And I do know that I am glad

Mr. Rabbit has let my cabbage alone. O yes, I was about to forget to report to my benefactor that I caught a big rat in the trap, and Scrap got the rat before he could get into second gear. And the way she jerked that rat, breaking every bone in his body, would have done General MacArthur good. I started to take her right down to the enlistment office and suggest that they put her in immediate service against Hitler.

Tojo and Benito; but she has been in so many fights I fear her eyesight is altogether too bad for duty with the Army, Navy or the Marines. You'll certainly smile again if you use Constitution Want Ads.

REMEMBER?

Shedding your steam-heated, heavyweight suit and getting into a cool, lightweight Hart Schaffner & Marx Dixie Weave suit is very nearly as delicious an experience as illustrated above.

Dixie Weave is 32 ounces of sheer summer comfort. It's cool as a julep (or a plunge in the ol' swimmin' hole), yet it holds its shape and its press like a regular weight suit—a significant point to consider in times like these when it is our duty to conserve on upkeep costs. And Dixie looks like a regular weight suit.

Dixie Weave is the name of this famous suit—don't forget it. It's all-wool—and Zachry is the place to buy it. Most important—Dixie's price is as light on your pocketbook as it is on your back.

"First in the Day—First to Pay"

Submarine Crews Likened To Frontier Indian Fighters

NEW YORK, May 6.—(AP)—Submarine warfare is producing a breed of men resourceful and courageous as frontier Indian fighters of bygone years, a young submarine officer said today on returning to the Third Naval District from Far Eastern waters for a new assignment.

"The sub men are men," he declared. "They're a breed all their own. True, they get 25 per cent more pay, but it's the life, not the pay, that gets them to volunteer."

Any faint hearts are quickly revived by the will to make good, he said, in describing a sailor who wrapped rags around his knees as his submarine put to sea after war was declared.

"What's the matter—got housemaid's knee?" asked his skipper.

"Well, sir," replied the blue-jacket, "I may not be able to stop 'em from knocking—but sure as hell I'm not going to let the Japs hear 'em!"

The officer, whose name was withheld but who was described as a former wrestler and football player at Annapolis, said his first submarine patrol out of Manila after war was declared lasted 52 days.

"Not once during that time did we see the sun," he said. "We ran submerged all day, surfaced only at night to charge the batteries. Continually, of course, we were hampered by lack of air power, for the Japs had control there."

"Our $6,000,000 sub had to do reconnaissance missions which aircraft could have done better—if we had the planes. The patrols, nevertheless, had their victories."

"While patrolling one day at periscope depth, the skipper saw three big Jap subs right there on the surface, in broad daylight. They were at extreme range, but decided it was worth a try. We let go the torpedoes. I can't tell you just what happened to those Jap subs."

Sub warfare "is part hunting, part being hunted," he said. "It includes long periods of waiting, waiting, waiting; long periods of looking, searching, the horizon, stalking the sea. We envy the plane pilots who can go right out, take a crack at the Japs, and come back."

Flag Is Unveiled For Utility Men

A service flag honoring the 275 employees of the Georgia Power Company who already have entered the nation's armed forces, was unveiled yesterday afternoon by Preston S. Arkwright, president of the company, in the main business office of the Electric building.

Of the 275 men, Arkwright said, 60 are serving on foreign soil or on the seas with the Navy. He predicted that before the war is over, many more stars will be added.

"This flag is here," he said, "as a constant reminder that we must not fail to understand what it is they do, so that we cannot so much shame ourselves as to neglect anything that we can do to help them, but will be more willing to consecrate ourselves to do everything we can, which is so much less than they are doing."

SPRINGTIME SIGNS.

Spring has struck at the city hall and evidences that the good old summer time is just around the corner is displayed by many offices, which are decked with roses and other flowers. The mayor's office, school department desks and others have the decorations fresh daily from one garden or another.

IT'S TOUGH TO BE PATRIOTIC IN A TAXICAB!

Of course they could save gasoline and rubber by putting all the Taxicabs in dead storage for the duration.

But what a scream would go up! For Taxicabs are a pretty important part of life in Atlanta.

People need them: really need them. The way our town is built demands transportation only Taxicabs can supply.

The boys at the wheel, the folks at the Dispatching Switchboard, realize they have to fight to conserve gas and rubber.

That's why they ask you to anticipate your Taxi needs if you can. Given a little warning, they can often make a cab carry passengers both ways—and cut out the dead miles and wasted gas and rubber of empty return trips.

But it's a tough battle, and they need all the help they can get from the Public.

Fortunately, Atlantans are patriotic, too. So they are helping, and helping plenty.

Jap Military Expert Casts Eyes on Alaska In Court Here

Northern Outpost Called Highly Vulnerable to Chute Attack.

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts), May 6.—(AP)—Shichiji Ito, well-known military commentator, said in the May issue of the monthly magazine Gendai (Contemporary Times) today that the season of melting ice in the northern Pacific has brought to the fore the possibility of an American offensive against Japan from Alaska and the Aleutian islands.

But he said that various factors discounted the possibility, and that it was not Japan, but the United States, which should fear operations in the northern Pacific.

The distance between Alaska and the United States, the poor transportation facilities in Alaska and the vulnerability of Alaska to parachute attack because of its sparse population makes Alaska the weakest point in United States defense, he declared.

Naval bases in Alaska have not been completed and are only large enough to harbor small auxiliary ships such as submarines and destroyers and are not sufficient to replenish any carrier striking force which would be sent against Japan, he declared.

Heavy fog and other weather factors would limit United States naval operations from mid-June to early August, and the United States is unable to transfer all her remaining capital ships from the Atlantic for operations against Japan, he added.

Newspapermen Guests At Municipal Parley

The Atlanta Constitution and Journal officials were guests last night at the Frances Virginia tearoom when administrative heads of the city government held their monthly roundtable discussion of municipal problems.

Among the guests were Hugh Trotti, vice president of The Constitution; Lee Rogers, city editor; Ralph Jones, associate editor; George Biggers, of the Journal; and Wright Bryan, managing editor of the Journal.

H. J. Cates, superintendent of the sanitary department, is president of the department heads organization.

Johnny Jones Goes on Trial In Court Here

Subornation of Perjury in Securing Divorces Is Charged.

Johnny J. Jones, Augusta lawyer accused of subornation of perjury in securing divorces for his clients in Fulton county, went on trial yesterday in Fulton superior court before Judge Hugh M. Dorsey.

The first witness put on the stand by the state was Mrs. Susie Tant, of Orangeburg, S. C., who testified she discussed divorcing her husband with Jones in Augusta. She stated he then filed her suit in Fulton superior court and that, at a conference with him in an Atlanta hotel, he told her it would be necessary for her to testify she had resided in Georgia 12 months. He told her, she said, to say she resided at 206 Elizabeth street, N. E., and that she took in sewing.

"Anyone who sews on two buttons is a sewing woman," she quoted him as saying.

The state is represented by Assistant Solicitors Ernest E. Andrews and C. E. Presley and the defendant by Hugh Howell.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—The Federal Power Commission announced a hearing here June 1 on the Georgia Power Company's declaration of intent to complete construction of a 50,000 kilowatt hydro-electric dam near Milledgeville, Ga.

Work was halted on the project early in 1931 after an expenditure of approximately $3,000,000.

Power company officials said the dam would supply additional power for southern war industries.

Blaze Menace Over, Forests Reopen Today

Trout Fishermen May Return to Streams on Reservations.

Southeastern national forests, closed a few weeks ago when drought aggravated forest fire menace, will be reopened to the public today, Regional Forester Joseph C. Kircher announced yesterday.

Among beneficiaries will be trout fishermen, who may return to streams in accordance with previously established fishing regulations. The Georgia Wildlife Division also announced reopening of streams outside the national forests, which had been closed to lessen the fire hazard.

The Chattahoochee National Forest in Georgia, the Nantahala and Pisgah in North Carolina and the Cherokee in Tennessee will be opened to the public starting today. Trout fishing may be resumed in these forests, Kircher said, with the open dates for the various streams remaining the same as announced before the beginning of the season.

Kircher urged that visitors continue to take precautions with campfires, matches and cigarette butts. He said the recent fires had destroyed large quantities of merchantable timber and valuable young growth, spoiled a number of excellent trout streams for years to come and caused great damage to recreational and scenic values of the forests.

FOREST FIRES HAMPER ANTI-SUB WARFARE

RALEIGH, N. C., May 6.—(AP)—Forest fires in North Carolina and Virginia, pouring forth clouds of thick, low-hanging smoke over the coastal areas, are seriously hampering antisubmarine warfare, Rear Admiral M. H. Simons, commander of the Fifth Naval District, of Norfolk, Va., informed Governor Broughton today.

The Governor said he had received a letter from Admiral Simons declaring there is a "serious smoke interference with local and coastal flight operations along the coastal waters of North Carolina and Virginia, in connection with anti-submarine warfare."

Admiral Simons explained that, under certain atmospheric conditions, smoke hangs over the coast and produces a haze of fog which makes flight operations nearly impossible.

Governor Broughton said every effort would be taken to check and prevent the spread of several fires now raging in eastern North Carolina. He called on the state Forestry Department, fire wardens of the eastern counties and law enforcement agencies to join in the campaign against forest fires.

"The communication from Admiral Simons makes it all the more urgent that every precaution be taken," he asserted.

CLUB WILL MEET.

Georgia Woman's Democratic Club will meet at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Dixie ballroom of the Henry Grady hotel. Randall Evans, speaker of the Georgia house of representatives, will speak.

FLOYD TO SPEAK.
Andy Floyd, of the state recreation department of WPA, will address the Junior Chamber of Commerce at 12:15 o'clock this afternoon in Davison's tea room. He will speak on recreation in the state parks and forests, showing motion pictures. Fred Singleton, vice president, will introduce him.

Dan Moody, attorney, announced at Austin that he would enter the race.

May 15 Is Deadline For City Tax Discounts

Despite the war, Atlantans are paying their city taxes at a normal rate, Charles Matthews, city treasurer, reported yesterday.

May 15 is the last day on which citizens may pay their 1942 taxes and take full advantage of discounts, he added.

Matthews said the checking of mail payments is proceeding slowly because work at the windows through which persons are making their payments is so heavy. He expects a recapitulation shortly after May 15, at which time comparisons will be available.

Mosquito Control Plan Is Mapped

A plan for mosquito control yesterday was mapped out by the board of health for submission to the county commissioners. The board plans, if the commission agrees, to spray all sections of the county where mosquitos breed. Warfare on both the pest and malaria type of insect is contemplated.

The board of health also agreed to work out with city medical authorities a plan for the examination for prospective employees at the Bell Aircraft plant. Dr. R. W. ## Vichy Will Get Reply, Grimly Promises Hull

Rejection of American Note Demands Answer, U. S. Says.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(P)—Secretary of State Hull said today that Vichy's rejection of an American note backing up the British coup on Madagascar called for a reply, and he added grimly it would certainly receive one.

Whether the reply would be in the form of a note or in the form of action, he left unanswered. He was noncommittal, too, when asked at his press conference about the feeling in diplomatic circles here that Vichy's resistance to the occupation of Madagascar was an act which might be construed as hostile to the United Nations and hence basis for a move against Vichy-controlled bases flanking the Panama canal.

Hull was asked whether this government considered French resistance to the British on Madagascar as a warlike act within the meaning of the American note handed to the French ambassador Monday night.

He replied that he had no information on the progress of the situation on Madagascar and preferred at this time to rest on the statement already issued on Monday and on what he said yesterday.

Monday's statement announced that Vichy had been warned that any warlike act against the British government or the United States government would be regarded as an attack on the United Nations as a whole. It also said Vichy was informed that if necessary United

Stiffer Rates, But No Change In Income Tax Exemptions Seen

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(P)—Retention of the present exemptions on individual income taxes was forecast tonight by members of the House Ways and Means Committee as Chairman Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, said they might start voting tomorrow on the stiffer rates to produce $3,200,000,000 in new revenue.

"If we do not decide to change the exemptions, it will then be only a question of rates," he remarked.

South Africa Opens Post in Madagascar

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, May 6.—(P)—Colonel Denys Rietz, deputy premier of the Union of South Africa, said today that an advance post of the Union was being established in Madagascar.

(There has been no indication thus far that Union of South Africa forces are taking part in the fight to occupy the French-owned island off the East African coast, but there has been considerable discussion that responsibility for its defense might fall to the Union as the nearest British territory.)

"Madagascar must be held," Colonel Rietz said. "Our allies have taken the initiative and are now making a bridgehead. The least we can do is clear our decks for action because our very existence is at stake."

He said it might prove a difficult task to guard Madagascar's 3,000 miles of coastline. Colonel Rietz lived in Madagascar for several years after the British defeated the Boers in the South African War.

Legion Paper Is Suppressed; Editor Quits

"Your letter pertains primarily to what was originally known as the Oxford Group and now known as Moral Re-Armament. For several years the Moral Re-Armament group has fought to get an endorsement of their program out of the national organization of the American Legion. In fact, it sent one of its representatives here for a stay of almost two weeks. He accomplished nothing."

That suppressed edition was an attack on the Oxford Groupers as far as the eye could reach through editorial columns. The editor had leaped aboard his typewriter with a "Hi-yo, Silver!" and went thundering off in a chase of Buchman and "his reverends and bishops and disciples." He filled Page

One with a statement headed "To Complete the Record." That job done, he swung over into Page Two, where he dropped in the editorial "GET THIS." Thence across to Page Three with an Open Letter directed in humorous vein to the post commander and adjutant. The rest of Page Three was a sprinkling of anti-Buchman paragraphs headed "Flat Rock Dots." Then over into Page Four he swept with a clipping from a New York newspaper on Americanism.

This all-out edition against the group was the result of words between the commander and Henson over an editorial Henson wrote in the April 15 edition, under the heading: "The Oxford Flare Up."

Local civilian defense organizations, it is understood, protested to the Legion post when Henson assailed the Groupers and their show: "You Can Defend America." The civilian defense units of Atlanta and Fulton county had sponsored the appearance of the Oxford Group production, in Atlanta.

Of them, Henson said:

"Folks who excuse the Oxford Movement by saying 'the play was all right' aren't acquainted with Georgia mules. A Georgia mule will be perfectly nice for a year to lure the trusting plowman squarely behind his heels for a kickoff."

No word was issued last night as to who would succeed Henson as editor of the publication.

Henson will still continue his column, "Uncle Ralph Says," in Governor Talmadge's political publication, The Statesman. He said: "Ye editor ain't mad at nobody."

Meanwhile the Messers Pitt and Henson are gratified that the tenets of the group forbid them from becoming angry or protesting about anything.

Amazing results shown in improving the looks...boosting vitality!

A truly marvelous change can be brought about by overcoming miserable digestive complaints, under-weight, weakness, loss of appetite—all by two important steps—

Restore vital digestive juices in the stomach... energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

More and more people take S.S.S. Tonic in the SPRING to gain new pep...vitality...better looks!

If you are one of those unfortunate who have worked under a strain, failed to eat the proper foods, have been vexed by overtaxing worries, or have suffered with colds, the flu, or other illness...yet have no organic trouble or focal infection...and your blood-cells have become reduced in quality and number...if your stomach digestion refuses to work properly, then here is what should help you!

S.S.S. Tonic is especially designed to build up blood strength when depleted...to revive and stimulate those stomach juices which digest the food so your body can make proper use of it in rebuilding worn-out tissue. These two important results enable you to enjoy the food you do eat...to make use of it as Nature intended. Thus you may gain new vitality...pep...become animated...more attractive!

Madagascar's Capitulation To British Seen

night giving details of the Diego Suarez fighting. It said:

"Large British naval forces attacked Diego Suarez at dawn May 5. The rear admiral commanding the British squadron sent to the colonel commanding the defenses of Diego an ultimatum demanding unconditional surrender of the garrison. The ultimatum was immediately rejected."

"The British air attack then was intensified, particularly against the airbases, the port and some French naval units which were present at Diego."

"Two ships were sunk. Nearly the whole of their crews were saved and continue to take part in the land defenses."

"Large British naval forces proceeded at the same time to disembark troops and armored units in Courrier bay. Parachutists were dropped south of Diego."

"Despite crushing numerical and material superiority of the assailants, extremely fierce fighting went on all day May 5 and during the morning of May 6."

"Three British planes were shot down, not seven as previously announced. Seven British tanks were destroyed. We took prisoners, four of whom were officers."

"The fierce resistance of our troops considerably slackened the enemy progress, which continued at the end of the morning in front of the defenses at the approaches to Diego."

"A counterattack carried out by a landing company from the sloop D'Entrecasteaux even enabled us to recapture some points which we had had to abandon. According to the latest news, very violent fighting continues."

Vichy French View.

"The attitude of our land, sea and air forces is worthy of our most glorious military traditions."

The 5,000-ton Bougainville, sunk while attacking the British fleet, was a former banana boat named Victor Schoelcher. Owned by the French company Chargeurs Reunis, it was converted into an auxiliary cruiser and named for the 2,156-ton French sloop Bougainville which was sunk by a DeGaulle warship during the Free French capture of Libreville, French Equatorial Africa.

The new Bougainville was armed with three 138 millimeter guns and three 37 millimeter antiaircraft guns, had two 2,600 horsepower motors and a speed of 17 knots. Her crew numbered about 130.

The Beveziers, the French admiral said, "made itself famous in the battle of Dakar where, under the command of Lieutenant Commander Lancelot, it succeeded in torpedoing the British cruiser Resolution which, gravely damaged and listing heavily, had to break off the engagement and flee."

The British announced in September, 1940, that the 29,150-ton battleship Resolution was damaged in the British-Free French attempt to take that West African base.

MISS LULA GEORGE.

Miss George's engagement to Aviation Cadet Robert H. Pair Jr., of Moody Field, is announced today by her mother, Mrs. Helen S. George. Miss George is a graduate of Druid Hills High school and is at present associated with the Citizens & Southern National Bank. Cadet Pair was a student at Georgia Tech, where he was a member of the varsity football team. Upon receiving his commission in the U. S. Air Corps, the wedding of the couple will be solemnized.

"Sweet Girl Graduates" Tell Plans For Future Schooling

• • • "SWEET GIRL GRADUATES" will soon occupy the center of the stage, for with commencements scarcely a month hence, these pretty belles will receive their coveted diplomas which will entitle them to enter schools and colleges throughout the country. Although the majority of the girls who will graduate during the coming weeks from North Fulton High school and Washington Seminary will continue their schooling next fall, only a few have yet made definite plans for their future alma maters.

Pretty Bowdrie Budd, who will reign as queen over the Seminary May Day pageant on May 19-20, will attend Sweet Briar College in Virginia, as will such attractive belles as Palmour Holmes, Marguerite Emmert and Jessie Strickland.

Lane Winship will follow in the footsteps of her sister, Margaret, by attending Gulf Park Seminary in Gulfport, Miss. Betty Rayfield is another of the 1942 graduates who will attend this seminary, having registered several months ago. The national capital will claim Mary Trammell Scott and Dorothy Sprattlin, who have enrolled at Mount Vernon Seminary.

A large group of school belles have planned to attend Bryn Mawr, in Bryn Mawr, Pa., the number including Jane Hailey, Mary Sutherland, Joy Rutland, Raiford Ragsdale and Jane Ward, while Laleah Sullivan will go to Smith College, in Northampton, Mass., and Lew-ise Camp will go to Sophie Newcomb, in New Orleans, La. In near-by Macon, the Smith twins, Carolyn and Harriett, will be students at Wesleyan. Betty Brown plans to enter Randolph-Macon, in Lynchburg, Va., and although Tatty Shipp has made no definite plans, she is thinking very seriously of enrolling at Hollins College, which is the alma mater of her mother, Mrs. V. A. Shipp.

• • • SHE'S BOTH pretty and talented, and she will be a June bride. She received her education at N. A. P. S., where she belonged to the Sunev sorority, and at Oglethorpe, where she was a Chi Omega. She is known over the state for her graceful diving and swimming.

Her husband-to-be is a lieutenant stationed at Camp Croft, S. C., but he is a graduate of Atlanta's own Georgia Tech. He was an outstanding student, and captured manifold honors during his scholastic career, including the presidency of his fraternity—Pi Kappa Phi.

Can you name them? • • • G. M. A. CADETS enrolled in the junior school will discard their uniforms tomorrow evening to don overalls and plaid shirts. The occasion will be the barn dance at which the cadets will entertain in the gymnasium of the school, when they will "swing their partners" to the lively music of a stringed orchestra.

Dates of the cadets will be "farmettes" for the evening, and will arrive carrying gaily-colored lunch boxes, the contents of which they will share with their escorts at intermission. A chute has been erected at the door of the gym, and guests will slide into the ballroom!

Chaperoning the party will be Colonel and Mrs. W. R. Brewster, Major and Mrs. M. C.

East Lake Group Opens Show Today

The annual flower show of the East Lake Garden Club will be held today at East Lake school. The chairman, Mrs. W. P. Branch, will be assisted by a committee composed of Mesdames J. R. Patis, W. C. Moseley, C. I. Motte, C. E. Jarvis and the club president, Mrs. J. M. Vickery. Mesdames Walter Lamb, George L. Pratt and J. O. Martin will be judges.

The members of the club, under the direction of Mrs. W. C. Moseley and Mrs. Frank S. Roberts have made two afghans for Lawson General hospital, and these will form the background for today's artistic flower arrangements. In attractive display will be vegetables from the victory gardens of the members. Teachers and pupils of the school will participate in the show.

The club members have just completed the advanced course in Red Cross First Aid and the public speaking course sponsored by the American Volunteer Service. The speaking course was taught by Miss Frances Gooch, of Agnes Scott College, and in appreciation of her service the club honored her at a tea on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Keith Conway.

Mothers To Meet.

Mothers of Atlanta men now serving with the Second Division Naval Reserves will attend a service in honor of the boys at the Kimball House, U. S. O. room, today at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Clair H. Berry, mother of Ensign Ben H. Berry, will preside.

Mrs. John Rockwood will give the Bible readings and sentence prayers will be offered by the mothers. Mrs. Ben H. Berry, wife of R. L. Odom will preside at the registration table.

Lovely Hedy Lamar, M-G-M star, is one of the most glamorous stars of the screen. Her lovely neck and throat lend themselves to photography, and always create envious comment from other women. A treatment to preserve your own youthful throat contour is described in the accompanying article.

New Overnight Cream To Preserve Youthful Throat

By Winifred Ware.

There was a time when women wore high-necked dresses and had to worry only about keeping their faces and hands youthful looking. But that went out with the hobble-skirt.

It's just as old-fashioned as the hobble-skirt for a woman to let neck and throat become old-looking. And it's quite unnecessary for her to let that happen.

Ageing signs are apt to appear early on the throat. Most of us are prone to devote a great deal of time to our faces, and neglect a beauty ritual for the drier skin of the throat.

And when we suddenly discover that lines and sagging tissues of the throat belie our otherwise youthful look.

Today I want to tell you about a treatment for the neck and throat which acts both in a preventive and corrective way for such a condition.

The treatment includes an astringent, firming lotion and a cream to follow the lotion, which acts to lubricate and stimulate the circulation in the throat tissues.

The lotion is an amber liquid with special astringent qualities, but is not irritating to delicate skin areas.

Regular cleansings should begin the treatment. Follow that with the astringent lotion, patted on with a dab of cotton.

Then smooth and pat the cream into the throat tissues and out onto the shoulders. The cream is rich in oils, but is not exceptionally greasy. It is smooth and white and has a delightfully refreshing odor of fresh mint. It will cling to the skin, stimulating circulation to the areas, and thus, nourish from the inside through the blood stream, as it lubricates and smooths from the outside.

The cream should remain on overnight for best results. This treatment, the first to make an appearance on the market, will please you, I am sure. And a thorough trial has been arranged by the manufacturer, by a special price presentation which will continue through next week.

Regular price of the lotion is $2.25, and for the cream $2, but now each of the products is especially priced at $1 each, plus tax, for the regular size packages. You can't afford to miss this opportunity to try this treatment for your throat at such a special price.

You will find other treatment creams and lotions in this line also on special sale through next week.

For the name of the products mentioned in the throat treatment, and the stores where they may be purchased, call Winifred Ware, at Walnut 6565. If you live out of town, write me, care The Constitution, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Hollywood Directors Work For Variety In Movie Kissing Scenes

By Harold Hettner.

HOLLYWOOD, May 6.—Springtime is here, romance is in the air and come war or highwater, Hollywood script writers are instinctively giving more profound thought to the kiss than ever before.

What would the movies be without kissing?

Trace the box office fate of pictures short on kissing and those long on kissing and draw your own conclusions. Producers and exhibitors agree that the most important component part of this whole fantastic business of canning drama for the masses is the screen kiss.

Today, ways and means of varying the screen kiss constitute a problem which keeps writers awake far into the night. In line with its constant search for novelty in all departments, Hollywood must see that the kiss is not reduced to a mere routine meeting of two human lips. It must have moods and trimmings.

Always a pleasant subject for discourse, let's take a look around the sound stages today and see how the most important screen kissers are getting along with their "work," and see also what sort of departures the smart boys up in the writing departments have contrived for springtime.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between: March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—The tendency will be to hurry through things. To answer too quickly and possibly too hasty. Guard against this tendency else there may be much regret later. The best aspects of the day operate previously to 4:00 p. m.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—Previous to 1:18 noon favors appointments, meetings, financial affairs, public matters. After 1:18 noon favors attending to old duties or matters that require patience or perseverance.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—During the morning hours and until 4:56 p. m. is a favorable time for obtaining the confidence of people who are in power. After 4:56 p. m. the calmness of the morning seems displaced with a feeling of impatience. Good time to stick to routine.

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER)—Should you have important work that you want to materialize quickly, this is an excellent day to attempt it, for you are likely to find that others have a more favorable attitude towards you. The best aspects of the day operate before 2 p. m.

June 23rd and August 22nd (LEO)—Harmonious influences abound throughout the entire day, making this an auspicious time for confidence, discussions, messages, new moves, and you can move forward with the expectation of receiving co-operation from others.

August 23rd and September 22nd (VIRGO)—Previous to 8:13 a. m. favors general activities, and when others will have a more favorable attitude toward you. You will, therefore, just naturally say and do the right thing.

September 23rd and October 22nd (LIBRA)—The serious side of all things that you are attempting. This is a more conservative day for attending to the necessities of life.

October 23rd and November 21st (SCORPIO)—Before 7:30 a. m. suggest that you use caution in making sudden decisions or in matters of judgment. Consideration for others will bring you more success. November 22nd and December 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—New beginnings made today should be surprisingly successful. An excellent day for obtaining better co-operation, for business, for plans benefiting others, and for decisions in general.

December 22nd and January 19th (CAPRICORN)—Before 10:51 p. m. favors only the lesser, or more practical, life. The entire day is likely to be filled with influences that bring confusion, uncertainty and indecision.

January 20th and February 18th (AQUARIUS)—Previous to 8:26 a. m. is the best part of the day, for others will be more sympathetic towards you, and you are able to entertain a generous outlook towards them.

February 19th and March 20th (PISCES)—Depressive influences may prevail today. Be determined in the face of difficulties. Keep cheerful regardless. The best aspects of the day operate after 11 a. m.

Suggestions To Help Sinusitis Victims

By Ida Jean Kaig.

If you suffer from sinusitis, you have plenty of company. There are so many millions with the same trouble that it is now called popular!

From Russell Clark Grove, M. D., in his book, "Sinus," we learn that sinusitis is more prevalent in the eastern states, where humidity, rains and temperature make for a very changeable climate and less frequent in climates where the changes in weather are not so striking. Cold, dry air is best.

But climate is not everything, the doctor hastens to point out, and many cases blamed on the weather are actually due to other factors, such as contact with people having infections—sinusitis often starts off with a cold—and the poor ventilation usually found with crowded conditions.

Diet, Dr. Grove states, is not so emphatic as you might imagine. But if you are below normal weight or are overweight, "there is often a great improvement in the sinus disease with the correction of these dietary faults, but this improvement is due to the increased resistance of the body as a whole and not to any specific effect on the sinusitis."

As far as diet goes, what is needed is a menu balanced to include all the essentials and the number of calories that meets your needs. "No special diet is necessary," the doctor says. "In fact, today quite a few patients suffer from attacks of acute sinusitis because of 'fantastic' diets which have probably lowered their resistance." You should be able to get all the vitamins you need in food. In some conditions, however, the use of the concentrated vitamins A and B have proved very helpful.

If you have a food allergy, a skin test by your physician will show which foods must be avoided. The most common offenders, Dr. Grove says, are milk, eggs, wheat, shellfish, fruits and chocolates.

It might turn out that you are allergic to the dog—or to the feathers in your pillow, to dust, ragweed, or the pollen from trees.

If you are a chronic sinusitis complainer, you should stay out of swimming pools. Even with disinfectants to sterilize the pool water, the germs are there. And you should stay out of all other bathing places when you are just recovering from a cold.

With all these things to contend with, you will be glad to know that new treatment is gradually making sinusitis less of a bugaboo. The time may come when you don't have to put up with it!

I changed to Spry and made this 3-WAY SAVING!

Try them and see how different Spry is from ordinary shortenings

See how purer, quicker-mixing Spry saves time, money, flavor—gives tender, flaky, delicate crust that's eaten to the last delicious crumb. And easy—why, a child could make it Spry's simple 2-STEP way. Use Spry for all your pastry—for FULL FLAVOR cakes and fried foods, too. Get Spry now and try this recipe today!

Coconut Orange Cream Tarts
2 cups milk 1 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons flour 1/4 cup shredded coconut
1 tablespoon cornstarch 1 cup sugar
1/2 cup sugar 1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1/2 teaspoon salt 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
Sift milk in top of double boiler. Combine flour, cornstarch, sugar, and salt and mix thoroughly. Add to scalded milk and cook until thick and smooth, then cook 15 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Stir in small amount of mixture into beaten egg yolks, return to double boiler, and cook a few minutes longer. Cool and add vanilla. Rub coconut and orange rind together. Add to cream filling and blend. Pour filling into baked Orange Tart Shells.

Orange Tart Shells
Mix 2 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour and 1 teaspoon salt. Add 2 tablespoons grated orange rind and blend. Measure out 1/4 cup Spry and divide into two equal parts.

STEP 1 for tenderness—Cut in first half of Spry until fine as meal. This makes the crust tender.

STEP 2 for flakiness—Cut in rest of Spry until particles are size of large peas. This makes crust flaky. Add 5 tablespoons orange juice (no more, no less), mixing thoroughly into a dough. Roll 1/4-inch thick, prick with fork, cut in 5-inch rounds and fit snugly over outside of muffin pans, pinching into about 7 pleats. Bake in very hot oven (450° F.) 8 to 10 minutes. Makes 12 tart shells.

NEW YORK, May 6.—(P)—

The stock market had a mild setback today after its show of rising power during the past week or so.

Industrial leaders lost ground generally, but only in a few instances did the declines run to a point or more.

Air transport shares and an assortment of specialties displayed independent firmness in the final hour. Some of the steels, motors and merchandising shares which had been soft in the early proceedings reduced their losses just before the close.

Dealings were around the smallest of recent months at 267,890 shares compared with 272,900 yesterday. The Associated Press 60-stock composite dipped 2.6 of a point to 33.4.

The market suffered no great disturbance from the news of Corregidor's capture by the Japanese and adverse reports from fighting sectors or Burma and China.

It appeared, however, that these developments, along with the Federal Reserve Board's order tightening installment credit controls and the War Production Board's new restrictions on gasoline and fuel oil deliveries in eastern

Crackers Down Pebbles On Lochbaum's 5-Hitter

Manager Richards Fined 50 Dollars and Suspended, But Atlantas Cop, 3 to 1.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 6.—As Cracker Manager Paul Richards smarted under a $50 fine and a three-day suspension for his altercation with Umpire McNabb Tuesday night, Emil Lochbaum pitched a neat five-hitter for the leading Atlanta club as they downed the Travelers, 3 to 1, here tonight.

Lochbaum had the situation well in hand after pitching out of a jam in the first inning when the Rocks scored their only run. After that only two other Travelers got as far as second base. In the second inning Wes Westrum lined what ordinarily would have been a double to left but the new Little Rock catcher forgot to touch first base. The Crackers, also feeble at the plate, obtained only six hits off the combined mound efforts of Joe Callahan and Frank Papish.

CALLAHAN RETIRES. Callahan, charged with the beating, retired for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

Thanks to Lochbaum's excellent slinging, Atlanta's pair of tallies in the fifth was sufficient for victory. Two passes, Thomassie's single and Letch's outfield fly brought the runs.

Charlie Letch, also ejected from Tuesday night's encounter, was permitted to play although he was suffering under the stigma of a $25 fine.

The clubs will end the series tomorrow night. Probable pitchers are Manager Willis Hudlin or Charlie Hawley for Little Rock and Larry Miller for the Crackers.

PEBS SCORE. The Rocks scored one in the first on Korte's pass. Fausett's single and Tyack's double after Olesby popped.

In the third with one away, Blakeney doubled to left. Lochbaum fanned and Buster took third on a wild pitch. Thomassie smashed a blow off Callahan, but the pitcher recovered in time to toss Pete out.

Although Callahan retired the side on strikeouts, the Crackers got a couple on in the fourth. Letch fanned and Glock singled. Browne fanned. O'Brien singled and Swiggett fanned.

Atlanta registered two runs in the fifth. Smith and Blakeney walked. Lochbaum forced Smith at third. Thomassie's smash to right scored Blakeney and sent Lochbaum to third. Emile came in after Letch lifted to McBride.

The Crackers got another in the eighth. After Thomassie lined out, Letch doubled to left and Glock walked. Letch took third after Browne filed to McBride. O'Brien's single scored Letch.

All in the Game

By JACK TROY

Here's How How to be a Derby expert, in one easy lesson: If you want to be able to tell your friends, I picked the winner of the Derby, and this makes two or three, or whatever it is, in a row, just follow these simple directions:

Just start early in picking your winners. Maybe you'll start with Bless Me. Then it's not nominated. But you forget that and try again. You tentatively name, at one time or another, five or six more. And finally you come up with an entry, of which you like the race favorite. And then it's ill-favored stablemate comes through. Presto! You are an expert. Frankly, I picked Alsab and stuck with Mr. Sabath's colt all the way—to a second-place finish.

In other years I must confess to being linked with nags like Bull Lea, Bimelich, etc. I've never had a winner. But it will be different next year. I am going to be an expert. I'll start in naming 'em in March and by May I'll have a winner—even if it is a sort of composite personal pick!

Back to School Composure is a wonderful trait in a human being. It's what makes for a great athlete. Some call it controlled relaxation. Paul Richards has it as a catcher. Nothing disturbs him. EXCEPT umpires.

Having seen composure in a number of fields, I want to say that Marjorie Thompson has a fair share of it. Marjorie's in B-6 at Girls' High.

The other day—sponsors' day—I was in B-6 at the invitation of First Lieutenant Helen Regas. Mrs. J. Elgin Poole, teacher, and the class had arranged a program which included a song, "The White Cliffs of Dover," by Marjorie Thompson.

Patricia Waller, accomplished young accordionist, gave her the key and Marjorie started well. Halfway through there was a sudden interruption. Over the communication system came the voice of the student body president welcoming the sponsors. Marjorie had to stop. Then she started all-over again in a little while and, in backing up near the desk, tipped over a vase of flowers.

And so she had to start again, but there was not the slightest change in her manner or voice. It was a fine performance.

I enjoyed going back to high school again and made only one mistake. I allowed the teacher to lure me into a discussion of the merits, or vice versa, of coeducation. I was soon over my head.

It would have been better had I listened to more book reports, such as Carolyn Hardy's on Thomas Edison or Lorraine Gibbons' on Mary Sullivan ("My Double Life"), pollicewoman.

After the pleasant visit, there was a personally conducted tour of the school by such attractive guides as Miss Regas, Jane Knowles, Myrtle Barrett and Betty Hargis. They made me promise to come back when Girls' High is a coeducational school. . . . Now, I wonder what they meant by that?

A Travesty If you have an extra large basement in your home, it's probably an improvement on the gymnasium at Girls' High. Speaking of social injustice, here is a situation that is incredible in a city the size of Atlanta.

Girls' High has a fine and glorious tradition. But Girls' High has no indoor basketball court, no indoor tennis court. No place for the girls to play volleyball or handball in the winter. Of all things, any high school should have adequate gymnasium facilities. Hale America isn't just a meaningless phrase.

But at Girls' High, they might as well call the gymnasium the basement. Shorty Doyal couldn't walk in it without scraping his head on the ceiling. Another thing. Girls' High doesn't have an assembly room that will seat more than half the student body at one time.

If a musicale or play is arranged, it has to be taken elsewhere for presentation. How come?

Eddie Arcaro Rides Winner To Near Record

Attention Runs Second, Ahead of Mioland and Brann's Challedon.

By SID FEDER.

BALTIMORE, May 6.—(AP)—They threw a million-dollar field of handicap horses at Whirlaway today and the "little long tail" made them look like selling platters as he boomed along up the road toward Seabiscuit's all-time money-winning record.

Hooked up with the best collection of handicap horses since Seabiscuit and War Admiral were stepping along, whacky Whirlaway turned on the same crushing kick that made him the head man a year ago, went right around the entire field, and galloped home by three-quarters of a length in the 39th running of the traditional Dixie handicap.

He passed them all—the one-mighty Challedon, Mioland, the California Comet, and high-and-mighty Attention—so easily he made it look more like fun than work.

And waiting at the finish line for him was a $19,275 pay-check, which boosted his all-time earnings to $371,811 and left him just $65,918 away from Seabiscuit's all-time bankroll and less than $5,000 from Sun Beau's second-place mark.

On top of all the other satisfaction for the long-tailed little fellow from Warren Wright's place in the Blue Grass, he also got sweet revenge on the horses who broke his winning streak last July and then wouldn't give him a chance to even it up. This one was Attention, who hung it on Whirlaway in the Arlington Classic after he had swept the triple crown of Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

This time, Whirlaway let Mrs. Parker Corning's pride and joy fight it out with Ed Bradley's Best Seller and Alf Vanderbilt's Impound for the early pace. Then he started to move and just snickered as he breezed by.

In the stretch, although he drifted out a bit, he was the same Kentucky cannonball of old and he hit the wire, going away, in the flying time of 1:57, just one-fifth of a second away from the track record held jointly by Pompoon and Seabiscuit.

All in all, it was just a push-over for Eddie Arcaro and Whirlaway, although he was two-weighted at 128 pounds and had only arrived from Kentucky two days ago. At the finish, he was three-quarters of a length and going away from Attention, who was ridden all out, and another neck in front of Mioland, who was closing gaps and just nosed out Challedon for the show spot. Behind this quartet in order trailed Best Seller, Impound, Texas Jack Sullivan's Air Master and E. G. Hackney's Sir Alfred.

Arcaro Sticks To Devil Diver In Preakness

BALTIMORE, May 6.—(AP)—Eddie Arcaro put the Greentree Stable's Devil Diver through a brisk workout at Pimlico this morning in preparation for the Preakness Stakes Saturday and reiterated he would ride the colt again, just as he did in the Kentucky Derby. This means that Wayne Wright, who drove Greentree's Shut Out to victory in the Derby, will have the mount on him again in the Preakness. Arcaro, Greentree's contract rider, could have ridden Shut Out, but chose Devil Diver, considered the stable's chief threat.

In comparative workouts this morning, Devil Diver indicated he still may be regarded as Greentree's brightest hope. Under Arcaro, he went a mile and one-eighth in 1:54, compared to 1:56 2-5 for Shut Out. Devil Diver was eased up in the final eighth while Shut Out was under restraint after three-quarters of a mile.

Sun Again, scratched from the Derby, went a mile in 1:41 under Wendell Eads, then was eased up to complete the mile and one-eighth in 1:55 2-5.

Streams Reopen Today In Chattahoochee Forest

By JOHN MARTIN.

Effective today, the national forests in the southern Appalachians, including the Chattahoochee area of north Georgia, will be reopened to the public, and fishing in the state's trout streams may be resumed.

This announcement was made yesterday by Regional Forester Joseph C. Kircher, who said that general rains had relieved the heavily wooded mountain section of the fire which forced the closing two weeks ago. The announcement substantiated a prediction carried in these columns yesterday.

Lifting of the ban will allow fishermen to resume casting in the Nantahala and Pisgah forests of North Carolina and the Cherokee in Tennessee, as well as the Chattahoochee, under the original schedules.

Kircher explained that while rains have removed forest fire danger for the time being, conditions might again become serious if there should be a recurrent drought. Consequently, he urged visitors to take every precaution against fires.

Recent fires in the forests cost many thousands of taxpayers' dollars, destroyed large quantities of usable timber, and spoiled several excellent trout streams for years to come.

Reopening of the areas made fishing legal today in Montgomery creek and Dukes creek. Other waters which may be legally fished this weekend are Rock creek and Rock Creek lake, Chattahoochee river headwaters, Moccasin creek and Jacks river.

KINGPIN OF AMERICAN LEAGUE—Bobby Doerr rates higher than baked beans in Boston these days. The stellar Red Sox second baseman was batting a cool .460 to lead both major leagues in hitting after Tuesday's game. He had made 23 hits in 50 times at bat. Just to show it was no fluke, all Boston Bobby did yesterday was clout two home runs, the last in the 10th inning with a mate aboard, to give the Sox a 3-1 win over Chicago. By the way, who is this Ted Williams?

Requisitioning of Private Cars, 40-Mile Speed Limit Proposed

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP)—Seven government officials were reported to have urged the senate military committee today to approve legislation authorizing federal requisitioning of private automobiles and seizure of cars whose owners are convicted of driving over 40 miles an hour.

The seven appeared at a closed session of the committee, but Chairman Reynolds, Democrat, of North Carolina, related some of their testimony to reporters. He quoted them as saying the shortage of rubber had become critical from a military standpoint.

Predicting the committee would approve the pending legislation, Reynolds said the government was faced with the necessity of taking "every ounce of rubber not being used in war or essential civilian activities."

This might result, Reynolds said, in the requisitioning of all tires over five for any one car, a procedure which the government would be permitted to follow under terms of the auto seizure bill.

introduced by Senator Downey, Democrat, California.

The government would pay the owners for any automobiles or tires that might be requisitioned.

The seven officials who appeared before the committee were Price Administrator Henderson, Undersecretary of War Patterson, Deputy Petroleum Co-ordinator Davies, Director of Transportation Eastman, Budget Director Harold Smith, Arthur B. Newhall, deputy director of the purchasing division of the War Production Board, and F. Eberstadt, chairman of the Army and Navy munitions board.

Reynolds said their testimony disclosed that "the most critical need in America today is rubber and our enemies know it." He stressed the fact that this was a military need, adding that civilians could hope to get no new tires from synthetic rubber production.

Those who have tires now are going to be able to keep them in most cases, he said, but there was no hope in sight that they could get new ones.

Comedy Theme Fills Current Film Offerings

Three New Attractions Move In; Two Shows Are Held.

Comedy is the theme for new screen attractions offered at Atlanta theaters this week. A light burlesque on Nazism is offered at the Rialto in "The Wife Takes a Flyer," and Abbott and Costello play at Loew's Grand in "Rio Rita," a comedy with music. Edward G. Robinson turns funnyman in "Larceny, Inc." at the Roxy today.

"To the Shores of Tripoli," holds at the Fox and "GWTW" moves to the Rhodes. The Capitol offers a new stage-screen bill starting tomorrow.

Roxy

Edward G. Robinson does a burlesque of "Little Caesar" in his latest picture "Larceny, Inc.," which comes to the Roxy theater screen today.

It's definitely a comedy with Edward G. as the gangster who is freed from prison. He is tempted with several good offers for "hot money" and takes one of them. It calls for the opening of a luggage store next to a bank so he can use the store to tunnel through to the bank.

But business gets so good that he forgets his gangster pal and continues his luggage business on an on-level basis. Jane Wyman is his able assistant.

Capitol

The final stage troupe of the Capitol theater vaudeville season, "The Four-Star Revue," will come to that theater tomorrow for three days. "The Kennel Murder Case" will show on the screen.

Headlining the stage cast are the Ferrente Brothers and Evelyn, three those acrobatics; the Two Flares, a novelty act; Cal Gwin, the man who imitates the bands, and others.

The screen attraction which first appeared some eight years ago stars William Powell, Mary Astor, Ralph Morgan and Eugene Pallette.

Loew's Grand

Abbott and Costello, now in their 12th year as a comedy team, will take part in a few old Spanish customs when they come to Loew's Grand theater today in their latest funfest, "Rio Rita," a musical with a Latin atmosphere.

Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, "Rio Rita" presents a wealth of mirth and songs in addition to the antics of the Abbott and Costello clowns. Ernos Volusia, famous interpreter of the Brazilian dances, introduces her native artistry to the screen for the first time in this picture.

Kathryn Grayson and John Carroll provide the romance and the songs. "Rio Rita" and "The Ranger's Song" were taken from the original musical score and several new numbers were written.

Rialto

A comedy romance which brings together the stars of "She Knew All the Answers," Franchot Tone and Joan Bennett, will be offered on the screen of the Rialto theater beginning today in "The Wife Takes a Flyer." Joan being the wife and Tone being the flyer.

As the story goes, Franchot, a dare-devil Yankee pilot in the RAF, is forced down in Holland. It is occupied territory and so are the arms of Miss Bennett, who is the estranged wife of a Dutchman. To make matters worse Joan is the object of the affec-

U. S. Must Pay For War Now, Bakers Told

Can't Pass Cost on To Next Generation Bryan Says.

Tremendous costs of the World War must be handled by the present generation of taxpayers on the "pay-as-you-go" plan, Malcom M. Bryan, vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, told the 400 delegates to the convention of the Southern Bakers' Association yesterday.

The bakers listened intently as Bryan listed war costs at figures beyond their imagination.

"We can't possibly pass a burden of this size on to another generation," Bryan said. "We can't shoot soldiers who are still unborn."

"This war must be handled by this generation."

"Floating bonds does not shift the burden from our soldiers," Bonds, he explained, are a liability as well as an asset, merely a process of "moving" a burden by a promise to pay.

"We can't let the future generation to be comforted by some of the permanent machinery and plants we believe we are building and creating for them," he said.

"For one thing—that machinery will be worn out and obsolete."

"A lot of geniuses will be born before our machinery of today could be tossed into the discard. That genius unborn will be improving on our plants and our implements of today."

A tax load as heavy as is possible was argued as the only means of paying the debt this nation will contract in winning this war.

The next generation must be debt-free to handle the world it will inherit, he said.

The bakers closed their three-day convention last night.

New officers elected at yesterday's session included D. Lee Hilton Sr., of Charlotte, N. C., president; Roy Jacobson, Augusta, Ga., first vice president; B. R. Fuller, Daytona Beach, Fla., second vice president, and C. M. McMillan, of Atlanta, executive secretary.

the "fighting men on earth," will be held over at the Fox theater, starting tomorrow. Randolph Scott, John Payne and Maureen O'Hara are the stars.

Taking a raw recruit in the person of John Payne, the Marine Corps puts him through all the paces. Scott is the tough sergeant who is constantly on Payne's neck. Maureen is the pretty military nurse.

It was produced in technicolor by Darryl F. Zanuck, who won the academy award for his screening of "How Green Was My Valley."

Rhodes

"Gone With the Wind," back in Atlanta for its second anniversary performance, will move to the Rhodes theater today for a week's booking with two shows daily.

Starring Vivien Leigh as Scarlett O'Hara and Clark Gable as Rhett Butler and written by Margaret Mitchell, of Atlanta, the film has been shown in most of the countries the world over. It has been set into Braille so that the blind might enjoy it.

This return engagement is for the youngsters who haven't had a chance to see it and for the grown-ups who wish to review its beauty.

U. S. Cruiser, 'Sunk' by Tokyo, Sails 13,000 Miles To Safety

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP)—Battered by Japanese bombs, blackened by fire and kept afloat only by the indomitable courage of her officers and men, the American light cruiser Marblehead has come home from the war, the Navy proudly announced today, after a 13,000-mile journey unprecedented in United States naval history.

Laboring under damage that might have sunk another ship, the 18-year-old vessel voyaged from near Java through the Indian ocean, around Africa and northward through the Atlantic to gain the safety of an east coast port where undoubtedly she will be repaired and restored to the fight.

Attacked by Planes.

The Navy took special pleasure in announcing her arrival inasmuch as the Japanese have boasted several times that she was sunk.

Three months were required to make the epic journey which actually began February 4, when the Marblehead, in company with the cruiser Houston, later sunk in the Battle of the Java Sea, and other United Nations cruisers and destroyers, were attacked by 54 Japanese planes.

The 7,050-ton Marblehead suffered two hits, one fore and one aft, and a near miss. All three bombs caused serious damage. Underwater plates were buckled and the seas poured in torrentially. The steering gear was rendered useless. The trim superstructure was twisted and torn. Fires broke out.

Bombed to Hell.

The full story of the bombing and consequent journey home was made public by the Navy along with many hitherto undisclosed details of the fighting in the western Pacific. It was a story of the triumph of dogged determination to win out against overwhelming odds.

As the Navy put it, the account of the Marblehead "is the story of a ship that was bombed to hell, and brought right out of it by a crew that doesn't know the meaning of the word 'abandon.'"

Back in December, when the war started, the Navy related, the Marblehead, with several United States destroyers, was at Tarakan, in northeast Borneo. She and her destroyers went into action immediately and for the first month were engaged in helping evacuate Allied shipping from the Philippines. More than 50 merchant ships were moved without a loss.

In January when the Japanese stated their drive on the Dutch Indies, the United States cruisers and destroyers undertook maneuvers designed to intercept and halt the advance. Japan's command of the air twice frustrated their work, but on the third they developed the battle of Macassar straits.

Four United States World War type destroyers opened the fight: The John D. Ford, Parrott, Paul Jones and Pope. The Pope later was sunk in the Java sea battle. In a night attack on the enemy armada January 24, the four destroyers sunk at least four large transports, possibly sank two small ones and damaged two. The Marblehead covered the destroyer force going into the fight and protected its withdrawal to the Dutch base of Soerabaja.

A few days later the Marblehead and four other destroyers—the Stewart (later demolished at Soerabaja), John D. Edwards, Barker and Bulmer—sailed out to attack Japanese ships concentrated off Balikpapan. At 9:30 p. m., local time, February 1, they encountered a Japanese fleet of seven cruisers and 13 destroyers and prudently retired southward, to join the Houston, three Dutch light cruisers—the Java, de Ruyter and Tromp—and three Dutch destroyers.

This force was ordered to ambush the Japanese forces in the vicinity of Balikpapan, but was discovered February 4. Thereupon the Japanese attacked with bombers and a furious battle ensued. At least 54 aircraft were over in formations of nine and showered the Allied ships with bombs.

Shells from the Houston hit one Jap plane and as it fell its pilot tried to suicide-dive it into the Marblehead. The cruiser's gunners got his range, however, and blasted his plane into the sea, and bare 30 feet from their ship.

One bomb hit the Houston, and two the Marblehead, which also received the near miss. In addition to the explosion, fire, flooding and disabled steering gear, the Marblehead suffered 15 men killed and 20 wounded.

Saved Their Vessel.

Discovered and bombed, the United Nations ships had to give up their projected attack on the Japanese and the Marblehead withdrew with her destroyers toward Tjilatjap, on the south coast of Java. That she was able to get there at all was a testament to the seamanship of her officers and men, who had to steer with the engines.

CROON, COSTELLO, CROON—Lou gives out with a Latin aria, not realizing that the mike is "dead." But little he cares. He and his pal, Bud Abbott, are starred in "Rio Rita," a musical comedy, which opens at Loew's Grand theater today. Kathryn Grayson and John Carroll furnish the romance and music.

At one stage during the first leg of the voyage the seas poured into the cruiser's battered hull faster than her pumping equipment could take the water out. Crewmen formed a bucket brigade and bailed furiously for hours until emergency repairs were made.

The crippled ship reached Tjilatjap February 7, but the dock was too small only the bow and a portion of the midship section could be worked on. These were repaired sufficiently to permit the Marblehead to start the second leg of her voyage to Ceylon, India. It was still necessary to steer with the engines on this 2,000-mile voyage.

Once at Ceylon the Marblehead was put in further seaworthy condition and set out on a 4,000-mile trip to a friendly port on the southern coast of Africa. Still more repairs were made there and that time when the Marblehead put out to sea she was really headed for home.

Two Veteran Congressmen Lose Primaries

Senator Bulow, Representative Schulte Behind in Balloting.

By The Associated Press.

Two veteran members of congress, both described by their opponents as "prow isolationists," were beaten in primary elections, unofficial but apparently decisive returns from four states showed today.

The defeats of Senator W. J. Bulow, Democrat, South Dakota, and Representative William D. Schulte, Democrat, Indiana, appeared to be the major results of yesterday's light balloting in South Dakota, Indiana, Alabama and Florida.

South Dakota Republicans nominated Governor Harlan J. Bushfield for the senate seat. Bushfield, like Bulow, was accused by his opponent, Olive A. Ringsrud, of "isolationism." Bushfield ran well ahead to earn the right to meet former Governor Tom Berry in the general election. Berry, who campaigned as an all-out administration supporter, was given an approximate 2-to-1 margin over Bulow. The balloting was about 25 per cent under 1940.

Seeking Sixth Term.

Schulte, who was seeking his sixth term in the house, was defeated in the first Indiana district by some 5,000 votes by Ray J. Madden. He was the only one of 12 incumbent Indiana representatives—eight Republicans and four Democrats—to be rejected by voters who turned out in fewer numbers than two years ago.

In Alabama, Senator Bankhead and six representatives, all Democrats, were unopposed. Two other Democrats, Representatives Luther Patrick, Birmingham, and Pete Jarman, Livingston, apparently failed to gain decisive margins and will have to face run-offs June 2. The voting was regarded as running about 10 per cent below normal.

Two Other Run-Offs.

Two other run-offs were indicated in Florida, where voting was considerably under 1938's comparable off-year balloting. Representative A. (Lee) Green appeared headed for a run-off for Florida's new sixth congressional seat and a two-way race was in prospect May 26 for the second district. Four other Democratic congressmen were renominated.

There were two gubernatorial contests. In South Dakota, in complete returns indicated the four-way Republican race would have to be decided a new 23-year June convention, as none of the candidates received 35 per cent of the vote. In Alabama, Chauncey Sparks, Aulafia, seemed headed for a clear majority over his four Democratic opponents.

2 Convicts Believed

Headed for Georgia

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 6.—(AP)—Two convicts who escaped Monday night from the state penitentiary here were believed today to be heading for Georgia after a Lexington man reported he had been abducted and robbed of his automobile by two men answering descriptions of the fugitives. The Lexington man, F. C. Price, said he had been forced to drive the pair to a point between Johnston and north Augusta, where they made him get out of his car and trussed him up in a nearby wood. After an hour's struggle, he related, he freed himself and made his way to Johnston where he reported to Policeman A. C. Wright.

Prison officials listed the fugitives as Joseph Klipp and Charles Newsome, both of Georgia, and described them as "dangerous." They said three prison guards on duty at the time of the escape had been discharged.

Shipping Priority Plan Announced

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP)—A system of shipping priorities to cover movement of goods to the other republics according to the importance of the products to the United States war effort, hemisphere defense and the maintenance of Latin-American industrial, economic and civilian life was announced today.

The new system, designed to meet the increasing shipping shortage in inter-American ocean trade, was announced jointly by the Board of Economic Warfare, the State Department and the co-ordinator of inter-American affairs.

Under the plan each export license will bear a shipping priority rating which will govern shipping operators in accepting cargo.

Only Quality Flower Show Peaches Are To Open Today To Be Moved At Gainesville

Violations of Marketing Agreement To Be Watched.

MACON, Ga., May 6.—(AP)—Shipment of green or immature Georgia peaches this year will bring action in federal courts, W. E. Leigh, new Peach Growers' Committee manager, said today.

Leigh said the government is placing 150 inspectors at shipping points under the terms of a marketing arrangement signed with the secretary of agriculture and violations will be prosecuted by the United States district attorney.

M. C. Coogan, representing the secretary of agriculture, said the department had been asked to send six investigators into Georgia to watch for illegal shipment by trucks.

The peach officials pointed out that the new arrangement is the first put into effect in the state and that it is a contract with the federal government to enforce the regulations strictly.

Leigh, who has jurisdiction over the entire state, says the object of the agreement is to insure a good grade of salable fruit on the market and a committee working with him will make recommendations to the secretary of agriculture.

Committee members are J. R. Gay, of Gay, chairman; C. H. Bateman, of Macon, vice chairman, and Alvah Nelson, of Thomaston, secretary. The committee is called industry committee Georgia peach marketing agreement and order.

"The shipment of peaches this year will be thoroughly policed," Leigh said, "and any shipment contrary to the terms of the agreement or the orders of the secretary of agriculture will be in violation of federal law. Prosecution will not be in our hands, but in the hands of the federal government."

Special Displays To Mark Victory Show Opening This Afternoon.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., May 6.—With nine out-of-town women acting as judges, eight of them from Atlanta, and with special displays and artistic arrangements scheduled, Gainesville's victory flower show gets under way here Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and continues through Friday night. ## Traffic Facilities

Okay at Present

Tire and gasoline rationing is going to affect the movement of workers and shoppers to Atlanta from near-by towns, but public transportation facilities now serving those areas will be able to handle the situation for some time, said the conclusion reached by the passenger and transportation committee of the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting Tuesday afternoon after a 60-day study.

The committee, with L. L. Austin as chairman, is composed of representatives of the railroads, suburban and intercity bus lines.

Normal weekend traffic augmented by men of the armed forces on leave has reached a high peak resulting in lack of seats and delays and may result in a serious problem as more automobiles go out of service.

Dixie Dunbar

Is Granted Plea

Dixie Dunbar, 24-year-old Atlanta dancer and movie actress, was granted a discharge yesterday in bankruptcy, freeing her of $25,666 indebtedness.

In the petition she filed in New York in November, 1940, she said she owed $25,666 and her salary had dropped from $11,000 in 1939 to $2,000 in 1940.

Federal Bankruptcy Referee Peter B. Olney, recommending the discharge, said the dancer and her husband, Gene Snyder, a dance director, whom she married in 1940, were both "inherently honest."

The pretty brunette recited that until she married Snyder her mother took charge of her income, allowing her only $5 a week for spending money.

Railroads Triple

Tank Car Pledge

NEW YORK, May 6. (AP)—A spokesman for the New York Central Railroad, commenting on Secretary "Ickes" commendation of the railroad for moving "enormous quantities of oil by tank car to the east coast," recalled tonight that when the oil shortage first loomed, the eastern conference of railroads promised the eastern lines would be able to move 200,000 barrels a week.

"Last month," the railroad official continued, "eastern lines moved 600,000 barrels per week or three times the amount we promised several months ago."

The official added that deliveries would be stepped up in the future upon delivery of new tank cars which are now on order.

"We are awaiting delivery of 4,000 tank cars," he declared.

College Group

To Enlist For Navy Service

Dahleona Students One of First Units in Dixie To Sign.

"Hell's Angels," a group of 30 cadets at the North Georgia College, will form the first college unit in Georgia and one of the first units in the southeast to enlist in naval aviation training, it was announced yesterday.

The students of the Dahleona school will be brought to Atlanta tomorrow night by a Navy bus and will take their examinations of enlistment at 8 o'clock Saturday morning at the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board on West Peachtree street.

A regimental parade by the entire North Georgia Cadet Corps will be held at 1 o'clock this afternoon, in Dahleona, honoring the boys.

Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution, will address the student body following the review.

Lieutenant Commander S. M. Nordhouse, USNR, senior member of the Cadet Selection Board, and other members of the board will attend the ceremonies at Dahleona.

DALETON MAN GETS 22-YEAR-OLD CHECK
Special TO THE CONSTITUTION.
DALTON, Ga., May 6.—The past of C. B. Keown, Dalton's chief of police, who was paid a check for $11,448 from the Southern Railway Company which came 22 years late as payment in full for a run which he made as a member of the train crew between Atlanta and Chattanooga back in May, 1922.

Soon after making the run and before he received his check, Chief Keown left Dalton for the west, where he spent 12 years. He returned to Dalton and only recently railway authorities learned his address and hastened to mail him his check, which he earned 22 years ago. The Southern Railway paid $22 years.

Chief Keown plans to spend his check for war savings bonds.

SUTTON TO SPEAK.

Atlanta First To Enter New Navy Training

Glen Lyle, 21, Enlists for U. S. Aviation Instruction.

Glen Evans Lyle, 21-year-old Atlantan, has become the first man in the southeast to enlist for Naval Aviation training under the Navy's new program of enlisting high school graduates for flight training hitherto limited to men with two years college credits, it was announced yesterday.

Lyle, whose home address is 847
Pence de Leon avenue, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen T. Lyle. He is a graduate of Boys' High school, class of 1939, and in recent months has been office manager of the Burlington Mills Corporation in Roanoke, Va. While at Boys' High he was an ROTC cadet major.

As soon as the Navy permitted high school graduates to enlist for officer pilot training, Lyle applied for enlistment. He passed his physical examination at the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board here, and was sworn into the Naval Reserve by Lieutenant Commander S. M. Nordhouse, senior member of the board.

Lyle will be ordered to active duty June 11 to begin his indoctrination period at one of the Navy's two new preliminary training centers to be located in the southeast at the University of Georgia and the University of North Carolina.

On completion of this training he will be sent to one of the Naval Reserve Aviation Bases for further training and then to one of the advanced Naval Air Stations to complete his instruction and win his navy wings of gold and a commission as a flying officer in the U. S. Naval Reserve or the U. S.
Marine Corps Reserve.

Chungking Vicar Stabbed by Robber

CHUNGKING, May 6.—(AP)—
Monsignor Xavier Jantzen, 57, apostolic vicar of Chungking, was stabbed and seriously wounded by a robber who broke into his room at 2 a. m. Monday, but a physician pronounced him out of danger today.

(French Catholic missionary headquarters in Lyon reported yesterday that Monsignor Jantzen had been "assassinated" at his residence, but that details were not available.)

D. A. C. First Prize Won By Georgia Scrapbook

The Georgia Scrapbook won first prize at the general assembly of the Daughters of American Colonists recently at Philadelphia. Mrs.
DeLos Lemuel Hill, state regent, announced yesterday.

Mrs. John J. McKay, of Macon, first state vice regent, attended the meeting and presented the book compiled by the historian,
Mrs. Fred R. Stokes, of Forsyth.

Uncle Sam Getting Mail To Soldiers Abroad

Uncle Sam apparently is doing everything possible to insure mail from home reaching soldiers in foreign outposts, and he seems to be successful.

In a cablegram from Australia
Harold Buschman, 24, of the Army Air Corps, mentioned that he was receiving all the letters sent him by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H.
F. Buschman, of North Evelyn place. Buschman left San Francisco in January for the South Pacific.

PICNIC TONIGHT.

Haygood Memorial Methodist church will have an old-fashioned picnic supper on its new East Rock Springs road land tonight at 6 o'clock in observance of family week. Dr. Luther B. Bridgers is pastor of the church. Mrs. R. B.
Giles is chairman, assisted by Mrs.
S. L. Laird, Mrs. T. B. McHenry,
Mrs. W. L. Burk and S. B. Gaston.
H. H. Nall, Judson Andrews,
Bayne Smith and Frank Dough-man.

Registered Voters In Fulton Gain

The number of voters in Fulton county, who registered or re-registered before the deadline of May 2, yesterday stood at 53,266, as against 49,302 last year, according to preliminary figures announced by Mrs. J. L. Garmon, senior registrar.

The voters are now being tabulated to show the number in each ward, precinct and district, she said. All those registered may vote in the state and county primaries this fall. Those who registered by April 27 are qualified to vote in the special election for mayor of Atlanta May 27.

Gain in Voters Seen For Special Election

Preparation of registration lists for the May 27 special election to select a successor to Mayor Le-

Craw, resigned, was begun yesterday by City Clerk Joe L. Richardson and his aides.

Although no definite figure is yet available on the number of qualified voters, Richardson and his staff believe the figure will exceed 35,000 and will be the largest list in the city's history.
